U.S. BOARD GIVES UP STRUGGLE TO END COAL TIEUP

Plans No New Steps to Settle Strike.

Washington, D. C., April 27 [Special].—Efforts of President Roosevelt's defense mediation board to settle the bituminous coal strike collapsed today and left the 27 day old tieup in a stalemate. Officials of the board said they planned no further action to settle the strike. W. H. Davis, chairman of the mediation panel which considered the dispute, said the President's order creating the board did not specify any further course.

The mine tieup, which began April 1 when the wage contract of the CIO United Mine Workers of America expired, has affected the nation's armaments program. More than 450,000 soft coal miners are idle and steel mills, woolen and cloth plants, and manufacturers of munitions have been forced to curtail operations as a result of the fuel shortage.

Delay in Mediation Effort.

Altho President Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins had urged early settlement of the coal strike as a means of facilitating the preparedness program, the dispute was not certified to the mediation board until last Thursday.

Madame Perkins did not certify the strike to the mediation board until after the southern operators had walked out of the union-operator negotiations. The southern operators rejected a proposal by President Roosevelt for reopening the mines pending further negotiations on a wage contract.

Both northern and southern workmen sought a scale of $7 a day. In the northern field the wage previously had been $6 a day and in the south the rate was $5.60. Southern operators, reluctant to give up the differential, offered a scale of $6.22, which the union rejected.

Public's Interest Periled.

Northern operators agreed to the $7 scale, and the President then recommended full resumption of operations. He proposed that any agreement reached with southern operators be made retroactive to the date work was resumed.

The President, in urging reopening of the coal mines, said resumption of operations was imperative to replenish a diminishing supply of coal for the production of armaments. "Bituminous coal production must be resumed, and promptly," his statement said. "The public interest demands it, and the public interest is paramount."

Whole Program Under Fire.

Activities of the mediation board and the order creating it have been under fire during the entire period of negotiations. The board lacks power to enforce its decisions, and can only make recommendations concerning the settlement of disputes in which it intervenes.

A possibility of legislation to curtail strikes in arms industries was brought into focus by the mine tieup. The President has said that he is opposed to such legislation until the good offices of existing labor mediation machinery have been exhausted.

A SOLUTION FOR THE CONVOY CONTROVERSY

Fights to Keep Boy Orphanage Asks Returned

An unusual battle for the custody of a 2½ year old boy is scheduled today before Judge Frank H. Bicek in Juvenile court. On one side is Moses H. Kamerman of Wilmette, a lawyer, who now has the child. On the other side is the children's bureau of the Jewish Charities of Chicago.

Kamerman charged last night that the bureau wants the boy back because his—the Kamerman—home "is culturally and educationally too good" for the child. Jacob Kepecs, executive director of the bureau, denied this, altho admitting that "they — the Kamermans — might expect more of the child than the child could give."

The boy, whom Kamerman is seeking to adopt, is Donald Pressburger. Dr. Hans Albert Einstein II., son of Prof. Albert Einstein, the mathematician, unsuccessfully tried to adopt Donald two weeks ago.

In Home for 19 Months.

Kamerman obtained Donald from the children's bureau 19 months ago. On Feb. 20, Kamerman said, he received a letter from the bureau expressing the belief that "Donald should live in a home where there is less educational and cultural stimulation."

Kamerman is a graduate of the University of Chicago. The Kamerman children are now in school, Sarabel at the University of Iowa; Marjorie at Northwestern university, and Robert at New Trier Township High school. The Kamermans live in a 10 room house at 220 Linden avenue, Wilmette.

"I can't understand the argument that our home is too good for Donald," said Kamerman. "I have had psychiatrists and psychologists examine him, and they say he is brighter than average, and reacts well to his environment. I'm not trying to wreck his life. I want to give him advantages so that he will get a better break than he would in a third floor tenement. I'm fighting to keep him. I will not have him kicked around from one home or institution to another at the whim of case workers."

$40 a Month Paid for Care.

Kepecs asserted that the question of any home being too good for Donald is not involved in the case. At the same time he said the boy "would fit better in a different kind of a home."

According to Kepecs, the children's bureau pays the Kamermans $40 a month for Donald's care. The Kamermans have had three other bureau infants, he said. The sole isssue, added Kepecs, is that between employer and employé. The bureau, as employer, wants Donald back from the Kamermans, as employés. The reason, he said, is that the Kamermans have not coöperated with the bureau. Should the Kamermans adopt the boy, the $40 monthly payments would stop.

Because Donald is a ward of the Juvenile court, Kamerman filed a guardianship petition there thru his lawyer, William J. Grace. The bureau is contesting the petition. At the same time, Kamerman filed an adoption petition in the County court, which is pending. Kamerman said the Einsteins dropped adoption proceedings on learning he intended to battle for Donald.

REPORT NEW U.S. PLAN FOR AN EXPANSION TO 80,000 PLANES A YEAR

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP).—Initial funds for expansion of the nation's airplane production capacity from the present goal of 50,000 planes a year to an ultimate goal of 80,000 were said by informed persons today to be part of a $6,574,605,468 army supply bill scheduled for consideration by a congressional committee tomorrow.

It was reported that the measure carrying funds to finance the growing land forces for the year starting July 1 would include money for the purchase of a substantial number of additional airplanes for the army. A major portion of them are expected to be heavy, long-range bombers—the "backbone" of aerial striking power. At present, the army is working toward a goal of 21,000 planes.

Calles, Ex-Strong Man, May Return to Mexico from U.S.

MEXICO CITY, April 27 (AP).—Relatives of former President Plutarco Elias Calles reported tonight Mexico's former strong man would return from exile in the United States early next month. Several members of his family already have joined him in San Diego, Cal., where he has lived since the then president, Lazaro Cardenas, expelled him in 1936.

German Army Drives On After Taking Athens

BULLETIN.

SYDNEY, Australia, April 28, Monday (AP).—Withdrawal of certain Australian troops from Greece has begun "and as far as this has proceeded it has been successful," Army Minister Percy C. Spencer said today.

BERLIN, April 27 (AP).—Adolf Hitler's legions swept southward into the Peloponnesus, the last tip of unoccupied Greek territory, in pursuit of remnants of defeated Greek and British forces today after planting the swastika atop the Acropolis at Athens.

They were driving at a quick finish to the conquest of the kingdom of the sturdy Hellenes.

Beating down desperately resisting allied rearguards, the spearhead of Nazi armored forces rolled triumphantly into Athens at 9:25 a. m., just three weeks and four hours after launching their Balkan blitzkrieg against Greece and already vanquished Jugo-Slavia.

Immediately the German swastika was hoisted over the oblong rocky mass of the Acropolis, crumbling fortress stronghold of ancient Athens.

Eighth Capital to Fall.

Thus was accomplished the occupation of the eighth European capital to fall to German arms after opposition.

[Warsaw, Oslo, Copenhagen, Amsterdam, Brussels, Paris, and Belgrade were the others. Copenhagen offered only a token resistance to the Nazis.]

Few details of the occupation were made public here outside the communique, but press accounts said Athens had not been subjected to assault. The nearby port of Piraeus was bombed, these reports said, because English, Australian, and New Zealand troops had tried to embark there.

Germans Use Parachutists.

German parachutists and Hitler bodyguard troops already had stormed across water barriers into the two north corners of the Peloponnesus in what appeared to be a fast developing pincers movement to snap off the last trace of resistance in the lower peninsula.

In the northwest corner of the Peloponnesus Hitler's specially trained men drove across the narrows be-

PREMIER SURE AMERICA WILL DELIVER GOODS

Says Sentiment, Not Interests, Will Rule.

SPEECH IN FULL.

The text of Prime Minister Churchill's speech appears on page 8.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 27.—Prime Minister Churchill, in a broadcast to the British empire and the United States tonight, cheered up Britons by declaring he was certain that when a showdown came the United States would not be motivated by American interests but by sentimental reasons.

Winston Churchill.

The prime minister pointed to what he said he believed was a certainty that America would continually expand her aid to Britain and, what is more, see to it that all American supplies reach England safely regardless of what further decisions the United States would have to make to achieve that end.

Patrol Aids British Navy.

President Roosevelt, he said, by inaugurating an Atlantic patrol by both the United States navy and the air force, had made it possible for Britain to concentrate more of her warships on the war against submarines closer to British waters.

To win the war, Churchill said, Hitler "must defeat this island or cut the lifeline between us and the United States." The danger of a German invasion of Britain, he said, has substantially abated because of the ever increasing might of defensive equipment. The battle of the Atlantic will still be long and hard, he added, but the United States is responding to his plea of 10 weeks ago for the "tools of war" and the battle "has entered upon a more grim but, at the same time, a far more favorable phase."

"No far seeing man can doubt," he declared, "that the eventual and total defeat of Hitler and Mussolini is certain in view of the respective and declared resolves of the British and American democracies."

Explains to Australians.

In connection with the landing of the British expeditionary force in Greece, the prime minister explained that German propaganda was bent on causing the empire to split and was trying to make it appear that, by landing a majority of Australian and New Zealand troops in Greece, England was having dominion troops do what she herself would not do. He added that the divisions available and the best suited for the task were from New Zealand and Australia and that only half of the troops who took part in the dangerous expedition came from the mother country.

Discussing the situation in Libya, he warned that there may be further setbacks even there, but said he would be sorry if Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's army were in the position of the German invaders. He declared Gen. Wavell never had more than two army divisions, or approximately 30,000 men at his disposal.

War's Spread Possible.

Alluding to the possibility of further expansion of the theaters of war, Churchill said that the "war may spread to Spain and Morocco. It may spread eastward to Turkey and Russia. The Germans may lay their hands for a time on the wheat lands of the Ukraine and the oil wells of the Caucasus. They may dominate the Black sea. They may dominate the Caspian. Who can tell? But we shall do our best to meet them and fight them wherever they do."

The prime minister called Hitler a "bad man," but castigated Premier Mussolini of Italy, saying, "that whipped jackal Mussolini, who, in order to save his skin, made all of Italy a vassal state to Hitler, comes frisking up at the side of the German tiger with yelps not only of appetite but even of triumph."

SENATORS READY FOR A STRUGGLE OVER CONVOYING

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 27.—With American warships patroling the lanes of arms shipments to Britain, President Roosevelt's war policy is heading toward a showdown in congress this week.

Senator Vandenberg.

The Tobey resolution forbidding the convoying by the American navy of merchant ships bound for England is scheduled to come before the senate foreign relations committee on Wednesday. A fight in the committee on the disposition of the measure impends.

Senator Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader of the senate, and other administration supporters in the committee will endeavor to get the resolution pigeonholed. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and other noninterventionist members will urge a favorable report of the resolution to the senate, and in any event will insist on a roll call vote on its disposition.

Shelving Seems Probable.

The indications are that the administration forces will be strong enough to shelve the resolution. Such disposition of the resolution would leave the President free of any congressional limitation on his constitutional power to direct the movements of the navy. The administration contends that the executive possesses unlimited constitutional power to employ the army and navy in any way that he sees fit for what he considers the defense of the country. Under such interpretation of the constitution, he would be able to provoke war with another country despite the constitutional lodgment in congress of the sole power to declare war.

However, while the administration leaders have good reason to believe they can defeat the Tobey resolution forbidding convoying, they are far from confident that a resolution specifically authorizing American naval convoys can be passed.

Conduct Poll In Senate.

In an incomplete poll of the senate they conducted, 45 out of the present 95 senators were found opposed to any measure granting the President such authority. Inasmuch as a majority of the senate is 48 and as the poll was incomplete, the administration leaders regard the result as distinctly doubtful and have so advised the White House.

Evidence is not wanting that popular opposition to convoying has stiffened since the British reverses in the Mediterranean gave rise to the impression that nothing short of our entire navy and an American army of several million men can save the British empire from defeat. The popular attitude has been manifested in the letters senators and representatives have been receiving from their constituents in the last fortnight and is now being reflected in stiffened legislative opposition to convoying.

British Apply Pressure.

The British government is becoming more and more insistent that the President employ American warships to guard the arms and food cargoes bound for England from German submarines and bombing planes. The British asseverate that they will be defeated unless America can guarantee safe delivery of the products of the American arsenal. Mr. Roosevelt entertains the same view and wants to comply, but fears public opinion.

In this dilemma the President evolved the compromise scheme of extending the neutrality patrol to guard the sea lanes to England. Our warships are now steaming close to the British Isles on this duty, which is confined to reconnoitering and reporting the presence of German warships and planes, tho the President has declined to say what our naval commanders are instructed to do when sighting German ships in the neighborhood of merchantmen.

The British are dissatisfied with this compromise, which they pronounce wholly ineffective. They have been given to understand, however, that this is the best the President can do at this time, in view of the hostility of the American public to convoying. When and if popular opinion softens, the President would feel it safe to order the navy to outright convoy duty.

SENATOR RAKES PRESIDENT FOR UNNEUTRAL AIM

Public Must Speak Out, Rally Told.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

President Roosevelt may have the power to force the United States into the European war but he has not the right to do so, and the American people can stop him from doing it if they act now, Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] said yesterday in a stirring address in the Chicago Arena.

Senator Wheeler.

"It appears that the war mongers are praying that an American ship will be sunk in order to promote war," Wheeler said. "But judging from the temper of the American people, they are not going to blame some other country for blowing up a ship. They are going to blame the President of the United States. He is inviting war and he has been inviting war ever since the election last fall."

Crowd Exceeds 8,200.

Senator Wheeler spoke at a mass-meeting under auspices of the America First committee. More than 8,200 men and women, cheering his utterances, filled the hall, except for a few undesirable seats at the end of the balcony. Several hundred more stood outside and listened to the speech over loud speakers.

The crowd, receptive and eager to applaud, rose and cheered when the senator stepped to the microphone. He drew a roar of laughter when he referred to the President's son, James.

"When the Jugo-Slavs stood up," said Wheeler, "they were going to send Jimmy over to help them—but it was too late. What a shame Jimmy couldn't get there. So then they sent him over to Chiang Kai-shek. I understand he took some motion pictures there."

Charges Curb on Opinion.

Another speaker was Dr. Charles Clayton Morrison, clergyman and editor of the Christian Century. Dr. Morrison accused President Roosevelt of breaking down public resistance to the point where public opinion no longer is free to express its opposition to involvement in the war.

Senator Wheeler's speech, latest in a series which he has delivered thruout the country in his efforts to keep America at peace, included a defense of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from a smear campaign which Wheeler said was indulged in by President Roosevelt and Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

"I deplore the fact that President Roosevelt has assumed leadership in a smear campaign, and that he chose as his subject Col. Lindbergh," said Wheeler. "There is no greater American than the Lone Eagle. To smear is beneath the dignity of the President of the United States—and for any one to attack Col. Lindbergh as a copperhead is shocking and appalling to every right thinking American."

Urges Mighty Effort for Peace.

Senator Wheeler then told of what he called the President's unneutral attitude and how the country was being softened into participation in the war.

"Today," he said, "we are at peace, but you, the people of Illinois, must join the people of every other state in a mighty effort to keep this nation at peace to the end that your children and their children will not be sacrificed in the slaughtering pens of Europe, Africa, and Asia.

"President Roosevelt may have the power to wage an undeclared war, to send convoys thru the combat areas, but he does not have the right. And he will not do it if you, the American people, exercise your constitutional rights of petition and demand that the administration stop this march into war. Your silence may be fatal. It betrays the cause of peace. You must speak."

Senator Wheeler made a comparison of "the two Roosevelts"—President Theodore Roosevelt and President Franklin D. Roosevelt. He said the former strove for the cause of peace and the latter for the cause of war. His reference to Theodore Roosevelt was in connection with the Russo-Japanese war of 1904.

UNITE TO AVERT WAR, WHEELER URGES AT RALLY

Senator Blasts Roosevelt for Unneutral Stand.

"More than 30 years ago," said Wheeler, "there was another Roosevelt in the White House. A great war broke out between two nations. We were at peace with both of them. The then President—Theodore Roosevelt—kept this nation neutral.

"Because he kept it neutral in thought as well as in act, and because he himself was neutral, he was able at an appropriate time to offer the services of the United States to the belligerents to effect an armistice. Because the United States was neutral in thought and deed both of the warring nations were able to, and did, accept the President's suggestion. They sent delegates to a peace conference, held in a neutral country at Portsmouth, N. H. A treaty of peace was adopted. The war was ended. Japan and Russia have not been involved in actual warfare from that day to this."

—Service of T. R. Hailed.

Theodore Roosevelt's service to the cause of peace was one of his outstanding achievements, Wheeler asserted. But what as to the other—the present Roosevelt? he inquired.

As a result of President Franklin Roosevelt's policies, Wheeler charged, there is not left in the world today a first class neutral power which would be able to bring the warring nations together into a peace conference.

"We had another Roosevelt in the White House at the outbreak of the present war," said Wheeler. "But this Roosevelt did not keep either his country or himself neutral.

"He issued a neutrality proclamation with his tongue in his cheek and his fingers crossed. From that day to this the whole policy of Franklin D. Roosevelt has been to ignore and destroy the neutrality of the United States, until today this nation is not neutral. It has become a nonbelligerent poised on the brink of war.

World Stand Described.

"There is not a first class neutral power left on the face of the earth, and this because of the policy of President Franklin Roosevelt. His has been a policy not only to destroy the neutrality of this country, but to promote the unneutrality of the whole of Latin America.

"Thus the world finds itself today in the most appalling condition—the most shocking since the beginning of recorded history. There is not a first class nation in all the world that, thru the processes of sanity and reason, can assume leadership for peace.

"There is not one nation that can initiate a movement for the cessation of hostilities to the end that humanity can be saved from further suffering and the total annihilation of our magnificent, modern civilization."

Situation Termed Tragic.

Wheeler said it is tragic that at such a fateful time in the history of the world the United States, strong and rich, cannot speak out authoritatively for peace.

"It is tragic," he said, "that the President is unable to assume that leadership for peace for which his high office as the head of a nation of 130 million peace loving people would have so admirably fitted him."

All that can be left, said Wheeler, is an appeal to prayer in the name of the Prince of Peace, an appeal to the leaders of all the churches to unite in a demand that peoples lay down their swords of brutality. Otherwise, he warned, the blood of Americans will be shed.

Joint Appeal Urged.

"Because our President has not seen fit to lead the nations of the world to sanity and peace, let us today appeal for divine guidance, to the leadership of the pope and to the leadership of all the great Protestant churches," said Wheeler.

"Let them join together and insist that the warring nations stop their wholesale murder of men, women, and children before the whole human race sinks into a common grave of death.

"The world today needs leadership to stop this senseless slaughter, and to bring the war to an end."

Not Our War: Dr. Morrison.

Dr. Morrison, like Senator Wheeler, received an ovation from the crowd. The theme of his talk was that "this is not America's war."

"The burden of proof rests upon those who declare that it is America's war," he said. "So far this proof has not been forthcoming."

How has it happened, asked Dr. Morrison, that the idea has been established in the minds of many Americans that this war is America's or that it is America's duty to enter Europe's struggles for the second time?

"My answer must be very frank," said Dr. Morrison. "My answer is that the President of the United States, thru a long series of utterances and a cumulative series of deeds, has put the nation in a position where public opinion is no longer free to express its deepest conviction against participation in this war.

"The nation has been committed, step by step, to a war policy, steadily and stealthily committed, thru a period of three years of official propaganda and official action until now the desperate and climactic argument for war is that we already have gone too far in to back out.

"Yet the American people do not believe this is their war. The succession of polls of public opinion reveals a constant, overwhelming majority against our participation."

Dr. Morrison said that far from being "America's war," this is "the President's war.

Dr. Morrison said President Roosevelt perhaps began to wage this war—the "President's war"—at the dedication of the Chicago outer drive bridge in 1937.

"Step by step he has advanced his war into the consciousness of the American people," Dr. Morrison continued.

Weakened Congress Cited.

"The President himself already has in effect declared war. He has designated the enemy and he talks in terms of victory. Congress no longer represents the people. It does his bidding with hardly less subservience than Hitler's reichstag."

Dr. Morrison said he wants to help support the President. By that, he said, he means the President whom the people elected last November, not "the other President, who degrades his great office by smearing the name of a patriotic American like Col. Lindbergh."

Mrs. Janet Ayer Fairbank, national vice chairman of the America First committee, presided at the meeting, and also spoke.

NINE ROCKFORD POLICE OFFICERS ASSIGNED TO GUARD WHEELER

Rockford, Ill., April 27 [Special].—Chief of Police Charles G. Manson announced today five police officers and four police detectives will be assigned to protect United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler during his visit here tomorrow. Chief Manson said he is assigning the men as a result of a threatening letter received by Wheeler several days ago from Rockford. Two of the detectives are to remain with Wheeler thruout his stay in the city. The others will be assigned to places at which the senator will appear. Wheeler will speak at Shrine Temple here tomorrow night.

O'BRIEN AND GISH PLAN AMERICA FIRST ADDRESSES

Miss Lillian Gish, stage and screen actress, and the Rev. Dr. John A. O'Brien, professor of law at the University of Notre Dame, will address rallies sponsored by the America First committee this week.

Miss Gish will discuss propaganda methods now being used to drag the United States into the European war at the luncheon meeting of Chicago post, No. 170, of the American Legion at noon today in the Tavern club, 333 North Michigan avenue.

Dr. O'Brien will address an America First antiwar rally at 8 p. m. Thursday in Orchestra hall, 220 South Michigan avenue. More than 3,000 seats are available for the Thursday meeting.

SENATOR WHEELER'S WIFE TO SHARE PERIL OF ATTACK WITH HIM

Mrs. Lulu Wheeler, wife of Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] will accompany her husband today to Rockford where the senator will deliver an antiwar speech at the Shrine temple.

Mrs. Lulu Wheeler.

Mrs. Wheeler's decision to be at Senator Wheeler's side was made when he received a letter from Rockford several days ago, threatening his life if he made the scheduled speech. The letter was received in Senator Wheeler's office in Washington, D. C., and was opened by Mrs. Wheeler while she worked on a report for the America First committee's Washington chapter, of which she is chairman.

"She's been the same way for the 34 years of our married life," Senator Wheeler commented yesterday in their suite at the Palmer House. "She is always around when the going gets toughest."

2 ITALIAN MOTOR COLUMNS BEGIN PUSH INTO EGYPT

Strike South of Sollum; Harassed by British.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 27 (AP).—Two motorized columns, believed made up mostly of Italians, were reported tonight advancing into Egypt south of the Sollum escarpment with light British forces harrying their every step.

[The new thrust coincided with the occupation of Athens by the left wing of the axis forces which seemingly were bent upon a grand encircling maneuver to squeeze the British out of the eastern Mediterranean and Suez.]

Informed sources said the move south of Sollum was being accomplished by two motorized columns, but a general headquarters communique declared that axis detachments "crossed the frontier at several points" Saturday night.

[The German high command claimed British advance units were thrown back to the south in the Fort Capuzzo-Sollum area and seven tanks destroyed. That fighting presumably took place on Saturday.]

15 to 20 Miles from Coast.

The advance of the axis detachments, said to extend some 15 or 20 miles south of the coast, thus produced a situation similar to that of last September when the Italians, who then had four or five divisions at their command, pushed beyond Sollum to Sidi Barrani, about 50 miles from the Egyptian-Libyan border.

The British communique said there was no change in the positions at the Libyan port of Tobruk, 80 miles west of the frontier, where a British force is holding out against repeated attacks by Germans and Italians and doing some attacking on its own.

In Ethiopia, the headquarters communique said, operations in all areas were "continuing satisfactorily." There the British are reported closing in on Dessye, where the last big force of Italians in Ethiopia is stationed.

Repulse Tobruk Attacks.

ROME, April 27 (AP).—Italy's high command announced today that axis land and air forces repulsed British tank and infantry assaults at Tobruk, Libyan port 80 miles west of the Egyptian frontier. Seven British tanks and several armored cars were declared destroyed.

The Italians listed more than 400 casualties, including 101 dead, in last Monday's British naval and air assault on Tripoli, main port of entry for axis forces in North Africa. Twenty Italians were among the dead, the high command said. Presumably the others were natives.

Casualties at Tripoli were highest of any Italian port bombarded by the British since the naval assault on Genoa Feb. 9 when the Fascists acknowledged 73 killed and 226 injured.

[The British have described the Tripoli bombardment as the heaviest of its sort in naval history.]

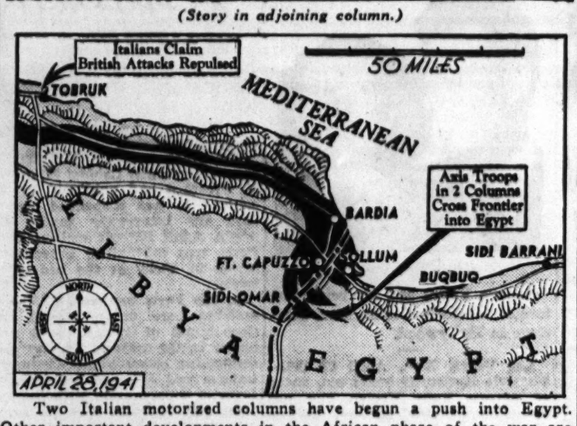
The Italians acknowledged "some victims and damage" inflicted by the British air force in a night raid April 25 on Bengazi, axis-held Libyan port some 300 miles west of the Egyptian frontier.

Gort Arrives at Gibraltar by Plane to Take Command

ALGECIRAS, Spain, April 27 (AP).—Viscount Gort, former chief of the British imperial staff and commander of the British expeditionary force in France last year, arrived at Gibraltar tonight by plane to take his post as governor and commander-in-chief of the fortress.

Italian Columns Invade Egypt

(Story in adjoining column.)



Two Italian motorized columns have begun a push into Egypt. Other important developments in the African phase of the war are indicated in the captions on the map.

Suez Next, View of Italians; Ukraine, Is Belief at Vichy

ROME, April 27 (AP).—The axis will use its virtually completed conquest of Europe as a "springboard" for new conquests in Africa and Asia, the prominent commentator Alfredo Signoretti forecast in La Stampa of Turin today.

He indicated that the next stake in the battle would be for possession of Suez, whence the axis forces would drive for further triumphs against the British empire.

The writer predicted it would be a hard fight, since England would marshal all her empire forces with the backing of President Roosevelt, who "deceives himself into thinking that the storm over the Atlantic can be escaped."

Action Against Gibraltar.

Signoretti also indicated there might be early action to wrest Gibraltar, Malta, and Crete from the British, but described these merely as islands with secondary importance in the vast struggle for power. "No menace can come from them to the European continent," he said.

He expressed satisfaction with Portugal's attitude by listing Portugal and Switzerland among the points where British influence is least felt on the continent. Portugal, he said, had no intention of allowing Britain to land an expeditionary force on its soil.

Italy, freed of the war in Greece, would throw its whole weight against the British in North Africa, he indicated.

Rome Radio Accuses Geneva.

LONDON, April 27 (AP).—The Rome radio tonight accused Geneva of being the "sinister center of all activities against peace," and declared that "up to the present time Switzerland has remained hostile to the idea of a new order in Europe."

The broadcast heard here said that Switzerland had built defenses against an "imaginary invader."

VICHY, France, April 27 (AP).—Diplomatic circles expressed belief today that Germany's next thrust would be toward the Russian Ukraine—Europe's breadbasket.

Diplomats said evidence of such German intentions lies in unconfirmed reports of Russian troop movements from Siberia toward the western frontiers of Russia.

Maybe It Will Be Spain.

The reported German move toward the Ukraine was closely bound up with a prospect of Nazi occupation of Spain and passage of German troops thru the unoccupied zone of France.

The diplomats said there never had been any question of Spain not adhering to the axis if Germany demanded it. The only problem was whether it was advantageous for Germany to undertake troop movements thru already undernourished Spain in order to close the western entrance to the Mediterranean.

Nazis Must Find Food.

It was understood here that Germany would have to find food before she would be able to undertake such a move.

The only place where this food is available is in the Russian Ukraine. If Stalin were able to drive a bargain with Hitler, the diplomats said, food would come thru normally, but if they were unable to reach an agreement war would follow.

Germany would attack Russia in order to obtain food before occupation of hungry Spain.

SAYS AUSTRALIA FIRMLY BEHIND BRITAIN IN WAR

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP).—A. W. Fadden, acting prime minister of Australia, was said today to have advised the people of his country that Australia "to a man stands solidly behind Great Britain in this war," despite "an intense German propaganda drive" to the contrary.

His declaration was made public by R. G. Casey, the Australian minister.

"The Australian people," the acting prime minister said, "were proud to be associated with British and Greek troops in the Balkan sector of war. It cannot be emphasized too strongly that Australia is fighting this war as one of an empire team."

PREPARE TO SHIP 30,000 SOLDIERS A WEEK FROM N. Y.

War Department Speeds Port Improvement.

New York, April 27 [Special].—A war department construction program to give the army's port of embarkation facilities to handle 30,000 troops a week, was announced today at the port's headquarters in the army base, Brooklyn.

The need for increased embarkation facilities, it was explained, is to assure prompt departure of transport ships with troops assigned to the seven naval and air bases acquired from England and for strengthening army posts in the Canal Zone and Hawaii.

The program calls for 70 new buildings at Fort Hamilton, coast artillery post in Brooklyn, and expansion of Fort Slocum, replacement depot near New Rochelle, to raise Slocum's present capacity of about 7,500 a week to 15,000.

When the buildings at Fort Hamilton are completed, that post will become a unit of the port of embarkation, with a capacity of more than 6,000 men per week.

Finnish Vessel Sinks Off Denmark; Save 22 Sailors

BERLIN, April 27 (AP).—The Finnish ship Lapponia, 1,172 tons, sank yesterday off Aalborg, Denmark, from an unknown cause, the official German news agency, DNB, said today. The crew of 22 was rescued.

U. S. Transport Sails with Troops for Newfoundland

New York, April 27 (AP).—The United States army transport Leonard Wood sailed at noon today for Newfoundland. A statement released by the war department said: "The transport carried equipment and elements of the 52d coast artillery from stations at Fort Hancock, N. J., elements of the general headquarters air force, a military police unit, and miscellaneous service detachments."

GERMANS SWEEP ON IN GREECE AS ATHENS IS TAKEN

Try to Trap Allied Force in Peloponnesus.

tween the Gulfs of Patras and Corinth. Then they fought their way into Patras, much bombed chief seaport on the western coast of Greece. Many British were declared captured.

In the northeastern corner of the Peloponnesus daring parachute troops yesterday came into action for the first time in the Balkan campaign, apparently to circumvent the obstacle presented by the narrow, four mile long canal across the Isthmus of Corinth. There was only one bridge across the canal and this undoubtedly had been blown up by the allies.

Cut Retreat of Rear Guard.

Hence the parachutists, used to much advantage in the campaigns in Scandinavia and the Low Countries last spring, were called upon to cut off the retreat of rear guard forces which had attempted to hold the isthmus.

The city of Corinth, once thriving commercial center, and the canal were taken by these forces.

The high command announced one British cruiser was sunk, two cruisers damaged, four transports totaling 22,000 tons and a merchantman of 5,000 tons sunk, and 20 other ships totaling 155,000 tons damaged in Greek waters yesterday and today.

Claim 232,000 Tons Sunk.

New York, April 27 (AP).—The German radio said today that German bombing planes had sunk more than 232,000 tons of "British-controled shipping" in Greek waters since April 16. The announcement said many other vessels were "heavily damaged" so that the total losses amounted to "roughly 700,000 tons."

British and "Free Netherlands" navy units have been ordered to capture Capt. Felix von Luckner, famous German raider of world war days, a National Broadcasting company correspondent in Manila reported tonight. Von Luckner was reported in command of 12 armed merchant raiders in the South Pacific and believed to be operating from Japanese bases in the Caroline and Marshall Islands.

SKOPLJE REGION OF JUGO-SLAVIA IN BULGARS' HANDS

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 27 (AP).—Bulgarian authorities today assumed control of the Skoplje region in the Vardar valley of Jugo-Slavia. King Boris, his brother, Prince Cyril, and War Minister Gen. Theodossy Daskalov continued visits of the occupied territories.

Bulgaria Thanks Hitler.

BERLIN, April 27 (AP).—Bogdan Philov, Bulgarian premier, sent Adolf Hitler a telegram today of "sincere and deepest thanks of the Bulgarian government for freeing" Macedonia and Grecian Thrace by force of arms. German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop replied that it was a "special satisfaction to the government of the reich that the way was cleared for a final and just new order in southeastern Europe, and for realization of Bulgaria's right to live."

PETAIN SUSPENDS TWO PAPERS, ONE AS PRO-ENGLISH

VICHY, France, April 27 (AP).—Two former Paris newspapers now published in unoccupied France were suspended today by the Petain government. One was the influential Le Figaro, published in Lyons, which was suspended for two days for pro-British tendencies.

The other was Le Mot D'Ordre, owned by Former Cabinet Minister L. O. Frossard and published at Marseilles. It was suspended for two days for incorrectly saying Otto Abetz, Adolf Hitler's ambassador in Paris, was indefinitely scheduled to arrive in Vichy at the end of last week.

In the Paris newspaper L'Oeuvre, arriving here today, Marcel Deat, close friend of Pierre Laval and a leader in the national popular group demanding closer French-German relations, said Frossard had turned in favor of collaboration with Germany. Deat said Frossard was the first of an eventful "horde" ready to join the bandwagon in view of German Balkan victories.

GERMAN CENSOR CUTS OFF ATHENS, BUT NOT HISTORY!

Golden Past of Conquered Capital Lives On.

ATHENS, Greece, April 27 (AP).—Athens, one of the great cities of antiquity and the governing seat of modern Greece, fell to Adolf Hitler today after 21 days of fighting. The vanguard of Nazi motorcyclists roared into the center of the city at 9:30 a. m.

NAZIS CLAMP ON CENSORSHIP.

The above dispatch was the last received from the Associated Press correspondent in Athens. It was filed only five minutes after the victorious Germans entered the city. It was assumed the German censorship had immediately clamped down on outgoing news dispatches.

A Reuters [British news agency] dispatch, however, said a large body of Nazi troops followed the advance guard into the city at 11:17 a. m.

The last previous report from the battlefront said a grim force of Australians was fighting the German panzer units at Mount Gheraneia, 25 miles west of Athens.

The British apparently had given up the defense of Athens and stationed themselves on the mountain to protect the Corinth isthmus, a line of retreat into the Peloponnesus. The German high command, indicated, however, that this force north of the Gulf of Corinth had been cut off by a parachute force which seized the Corinth canal to the rear.

Port Is Badly Bombed.

There was a possible embarkation point for the British, however, at badly bombed Megara on the Gulf of Corinth.

The British command at Cairo issued a communique Sunday saying "our troops are continuing their withdrawal."

A mysterious broadcast from Athens by a woman identifying herself as an American war correspondent said British troops were evacuating Greece "in hundreds and thousands of little gasoline ships and sailboats which for many long years have been the livelihood of Greece."

The Germans entering Athens found King George II and his government fled to the island of Crete, with only minor officials left behind to surrender the city and the Athens police maintaining order. The citizens had been sternly enjoined not to demonstrate.

Repeatedly Captured City.

Athens, a city older than written history, with a population now of more than 700,000, has been captured repeatedly down thru the centuries, but on a surprising number of occasions has escaped destructive handling by her conquerors.

Even in the present war there was no aerial bombing of the city proper.

The Persians wrecked Athens in 480 B. C., but Philip and Alexander the Great so admired Athenian culture that they treated the city with notable favor in the fourth century B. C.

Athens made friends with Rome in 228 B. C., and in the next century gained many favors from the Roman empire, but the Romans finally stormed and looted the city in 86 B. C. Subsequently, however, the Romans admired Athens enough to patronize her famous schools.

Sided With Brutus.

Athens sided with Pompey in the Roman civil wars, but was pardoned "in consideration of her great dead." Again, she sided with Brutus, but escaped harm.

Thruout the troubled Byzantine period and the early middle ages Athens' overlordship changed many times. The Turks took the city in 1456 A. D., and the Venetians drove out the Turks in 1466. This brought the ruin of Athens' most famous building, the Parthenon.

A Venetian bomb touched off the powder the Turks had stored there, and the Parthenon was torn apart. The Venetians furthered the destruction by using stones from the ancient buildings to repair the Acropolis defensive walls.

The Turks burned Athens the following year to drive the Venetians out. A Turkish wall helped keep the city under Turkish rule until 1821, when Greek insurrectionists surprised and captured it.

The Turks stormed Athens again in 1826, and remained in possession of the Acropolis thru revolution and civil conflict until 1833, when Athens was chosen capital of the kingdom of Greece.

Time Changes

Daylight saving time in effect on clock at west side building, with clock on North Western station maintaining standard time yesterday.

Chicago went on daylight saving time for the 23d year yesterday without a hitch. As a result hundreds of thousands of persons enjoyed their first extra hour of daylight last evening.

Only a relative few of the city's millions will continue to observe standard time, most of those employed directly or indirectly by railroads.

Motorists crossing the Washington boulevard bridge had the experience and will continue to have it, of seeing two large outdoor clocks showing standard and daylight times. The clock showing standard time is on the North Western railroad station, the one indicating daylight time on the building just to the north.

GERMAN FLEET UNITS IN ACTION OFF GREEK COAST

BERLIN, April 27 (AP).—Units of the German fleet are in the eastern Mediterranean harassing British efforts to deliver the expeditionary force out of Greece, DNB, German news agency, reported tonight. The fleet apparently was coöperating with the Nazi air force.

German sources earlier reported that units of the Nazi fleet coöperated with the army in occupying islands off Greece and Turkey.

Altho DNB did not say what units of the German fleet were in the Aegean, it is assumed they are speedboats and perhaps submarines. Speedboats could be shipped overland to Aegean and Black sea ports.

Germany previously has been reported shipping knocked down submarines to Rumanian submarine bases and ports for reassembly. From there they presumably would make their way thru the Dardanelles.

CHARGES BRITAIN ERRED IN SENDING ARMY TO GREECE

Gen. Fuller Denies Moral Policy Justified Act.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 27.—Maj. Gen. J. F. C. Fuller, who is regarded by many observers as England's leading military writer, in an article in today's Sunday Pictorial took exception to the proposition advanced by Prime Minister Churchill that Britain was morally bound to land troops in Greece despite military considerations which might have counselled otherwise.

One of five questions Gen. Fuller said he has been asked to answer is:

"Do you agree we were forced to go to the aid of Greece for political reasons?"

His answer was:

"Certainly not—politics be damned."

Noble Words; Not a Noble Age.

Gen. Fuller quoted Australian Premier R. G. Menzies' statement that:

"To desert Greece just as the Germans were about to attack them would have been one of the infamies of history."

"These are noble words," Fuller commented, "but unfortunately this isn't a noble age. These are chivalrous words but chivalry between belligerents is long gone to powder. These are magnificent words but lack the idiom of total war."

Germany, Gen. Fuller said, "tho adept at making use of politics as a weapon, does not mix politics with strategy," which, when accomplished, would have automatically liberated Greece.

Britain, he said, failed in Greece because she is an oceanic empire and sea power but not a "continental empire or land power." He continued, "Our strategy demands that we must never single handedly become embroiled on land with a continental power. Further, today no continental power is worth a tactical damn as an ally unless its army is powerfully mechanized and possesses an effective air force."

Battle of Egypt Vital.

Asserting that next in importance for Britain after the battle of the Atlantic is the battle of Egypt, Gen. Fuller maintains that the security of Egypt for England is "so vital it is better that we approach starvation than abandon that region."

To hold Egypt mechanical equipment is essential, and Britain, he said, instead of wanting an army of four million men "wants an army of 20,000 tanks and 20,000 aircraft, possibly more."

In his opinion, Britain made a great strategic error in stopping Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell's advance across Libya until it ended at Tripoli in order to send troops to Greece.

WE WANT NEWS, EVEN IF IT'S BAD, SAY THE BRITISH

Treated Just Like Kids, They Complain.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 27.—The meagerness of official British news about war operations is one of the chief grouses of the British citizen and dates from the first days of the war.

Maj. Gen. Sir Frederick Maurice.

THE TRIBUNE has heard again and again remarks such as "What is our ministry of information doing?" "Why don't we get the news—we know it can't always be good, but even bad news is better than none at all—we can take it—why are we treated like kids?"

Maj. Gen. Sir Frederick Maurice, director of military operations of the imperial general staff in the last war and now president of the British Legion, said in an article in the Sunday Dispatch that the public should be told more frankly and in greater detail what is happening on the battlefields.

Both "Tardy and Meager."

"I do not often grouse," he writes, "but I am going to grouse today. The news of the past ten days from Greece and Libya has been tardy and meager. When that happens we generally abuse the ministry of information or censor.

"That is unfair, for they are not to blame. The ministry of information cannot create news—it can only hand on to us the news it receives from the commander in the field or from correspondents with the forces. The only source of news of day to day events on the front is the official communiques.

"When a difficult retreat against superior forces is being carried out, preparation of the communiques is a nuisance. When troops are hard pressed they have other things to think about than sending back news and it isn't easy for headquarters to get an accurate picture of the situation which can be put into a brief summary. But when every allowance is made I do not think we have been treated as well as we might have been.

Front Line at Home.

"We at home are in a front line of our own and have our own anxieties which are increased much more by the absence of news that the receipt of bad news. I have heard more 'inside information' during the last 10 days than during the rest of the war—most of it contradictory.

"The only way to stop this sort of rubbish is the promptest possible issue of authentic news. It's an effective part of the German technique to issue immediate and exaggerated accounts of their successes. The object, of course, is to increase the moral effect of material achievement.

"When we admit 24 hours or more after the enemy has made his claims that they are substantially correct, we play his game and give him a start with the news with which we never catch up. This is of vital importance at the present time when other countries like Turkey and Spain are watching events anxiously before deciding which side of the fence to come down on.

Little Mention of British.

"I am also worried by the fact that in all the recent fighting in Libya, Greece, and Ethiopia, we hear only of the deeds of the Anzac, South African, and Indian troops. We all know the Anzacs are as stout fighters as can be found and the other imperial forces have been splendid. But are there no British troops fighting? The casualty lists tell us they have been doing their bit, so why not say so?

"We made the same mistake in the last war and it didn't do our prestige any good. I went to the United States early in 1919 and found the impression prevailed that we had done all of our fighting with Anzac, Canadian, Scotch, and Irish troops.

"When I showed my American friends the English casualty lists they were amazed and said, 'Why on earth didn't you say so?'

"Why not, indeed!"

HITLER DEMANDS WOULD BRING ON WAR, TURK VIEW

See Threat to Dardanelles from Greek Islands.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 28, Monday (AP).—Turkish newspapers for the first time in months spoke openly today of a German menace to this country, especially of threats seen in the Nazi occupation of Greek islands in position to dominate the vital straits of the Dardanelles.

Ikdam said, "we cannot help remarking that we notice a difference between Germany's assurances to Turkey and her action in occupying four islands which lie on the way to the straits." [Presumably the islands of Samothrace, Lemnos, Mytilene, and Chios.]

"Our government," the newspaper Vatan said, "is prepared to accept even the smallest demands as a declaration of war."

President Ismet Inonu was believed in diplomatic circles to be in the Izmir [Smyrna] region on an inspection trip close to the Aegean islands now occupied by the Nazis.

An editor who just returned from Ankara said the government realized that if it conceded "small things it would be only the beginning of concession of big unbearable things. There will be no compromise, no yielding, only resistance to all demands."

Russia Eyes Situation.

MOSCOW, April 27 (AP).—Red Star, organ of the soviet army, reported for the first time today the German occupation of the Greek islands of Samothrace and Lemnos, near the Dardanelles entrance to the Black sea, and described this as part of "widespread action" in the Aegean.

Referring to Lemnos, the newspaper said "This island 60 kilometers [about 38 miles] from the exit of the Dardanelles has great strategic importance." Red Star failed to throw any light on the soviet government's attitude toward the occupation.

[Russia has fought several wars to keep the Dardanelles, guardian sentinel of her Black sea outlet, out of the hands of a dominating European power.]

Red Army Maneuvers.

Simultaneously it was reported that Red army engineers have pitched camp in the Odessa military district adjoining the Balkans for a training period—the first mention here of soviet spring exercises on the Black sea.

A bulletin said the engineers would practice problems in river crossing, including bridge building and ferry movements, scouting, mine laying, and camouflage.

AUTHOR E. POOLE'S SON-IN-LAW KILLED IN ACTION WITH RAF

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP).—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins received a cable tonight from Ernest Poole, author, of New York and Chicago, advising that his son-in-law, Henry Robert Lancaster, had been killed in action with the royal air force. Madame Perkins, a friend of the family, received no details.

Lancaster and the former Elizabeth Poole were married in London last May. Ernest Poole attended the wedding and has remained in England since then.

Ernest Poole, author of "The Harbor," "The Bridge" and other novels, has spent much of his time in Europe since world war days. His daughter, Mrs. Lancaster, is a writer, too, and has been living in London. Her mother is the former Miss Margaret Ann Winterbotham of Chicago. Mr. Lancaster is an architect.

$26,000 LOSS IN IOWA FIRE.

Elkader, Ia., April 27 (AP).—Fire, causing damage estimated at $26,000, swept thru a produce and implement company's building here early today. The fire started in the rear of the building and was out of control when the town siren sounded at 3:45 a. m.

SWEDISH, FINNISH RADIOS PRESENT CHURCHILL TALK

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, April 27.—Within 10 minutes after Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain had finished his speech tonight, both the Finnish and Swedish radio stations broadcast practically complete translations of it.

In Sweden, where sentiment is largely pro-British, public morale took a marked slump after England's defeat in Greece and Libya. The English propaganda corps in Stockholm is a large and unusually efficient organization. When the Balkan campaign began the opinions of British experts predicting British successes were given wide publicity and the Swedes were elated.

The defeat depressed the Swedes and Churchill's speech, according to some, may even result in a change in the Swedish cabinet.

5 PERSONS DIE, IN 'FLOUR RIOTS' OF NORTH SYRIA

BEIRUT, Syria, April 27.—Five persons were killed, 20 were seriously injured, and scores arrested in "flour riots" last week in the northern Syrian towns of Hama and Aleppo.

In Hama, where a strike was in progress against the local flour mill, rioters broke in and destroyed machinery, then attacked the police station in an attempt to release demonstrators. The disorders spread to Aleppo, where one person was killed and five injured in clashes with police. French military armored cars were called out to patrol the streets in both towns, while police established guards at public buildings.

The Syrian and Lebanese governments have concluded talks on ways and means of supplying both markets with wheat and other essential commodities. The problem of barter with neighboring countries also was considered.

TEXT OF SPEECH BY CHURCHILL ON MORE HELP BY U.S.

Predicts America Won't Permit Sinkings.

LONDON, April 27 (AP).—The text of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech tonight follows:

"I was asked last week whether I was aware of some uneasiness which it was said existed in the country on account of the gravity, as it was described, of the war situation.

"So I thought it would be a good thing to go and see for myself what this uneasiness amounted to.

"I went to some of our great cities and seaports which have been most heavily bombed and to some of the places where the poorest people have got it worst.

"I have come back not only reassured but refreshed. To leave the offices in Whitehall with their ceaseless hum, activity, and stress and go out to the front, by which I mean the streets and wharves of London, Liverpool, Manchester, Cardiff, Swansea, or Bristol, is like going out of a hot house onto the bridge of a fighting ship.

"It is a tonic I should recommend to any who are suffering from fretfulness to take in strong doses when they have need of it. It is quite true I have seen many painful scenes of havoc and fine buildings and acres of cottage homes blasted into rubble and heaps of ruins, but it is just in those very places where the malice of the savage enemy has done its worst and where the ordeal of men, women, and children has been most severe, that I found their morale most high and splendid.

People's Spirit Exalted.

"Indeed I feel encompassed by an exaltation of spirit in the people which seems to lift mankind and its troubles above the level of material facts—indeed, to that joyous serenity we think belongs to a better world than this.

"Of their kindness to me I cannot speak, because I never sought it or dreamt of it and can never deserve it. I can only assure you that I and my colleagues, or comrades rather, for that is what they are, will toil with every scrap of life and strength according to the lights that are granted to us, not to fail these people or be wholly unworthy of their faithful and generous regard.

"The British nation is stirred and moved as it never has been at any time in its long, eventful and famous history and it is no hackneyed figure of speech to say they mean to conquer or die.

"What a triumph is life in these battered cities over the worst that fire and bomb can do! What vindication of the civilized and decent way of living we have been trying to work for and work toward in our island! What a proof of fortitude of free institutions! What a test of the quality of our local authorities and of the customs and societies so sturdily built!

"This ordeal by fire is in a certain sense even exhilarating the manhood and womanhood of Britain. The sublime but also terrible experiences and emotions of the battlefield which for centuries have been reserved for soldiers and sailors now are shared for good or ill by the entire population. All are proud to be under the fire of the enemy.

"Old men, little children, the crippled, the veterans of former wars, aged women, the ordinary hard-pressed citizen, or subject of the king, as he likes to call himself; the sturdy workman with his hammer in shipyards, skilled craftsman, members of every kind of air raid precaution service are proud to feel that they stand in line together with our fighting men, when one of the greatest causes is being fought out, as fought out it will be to the end.

Heroic Period of History.

"This indeed is a grand and heroic period in our history and the light of glory shines upon all.

"You may imagine how deeply I feel my own responsibility toward all these people, my responsibility to bear my part in bringing them safely out of this stern, scowling valley thru which we are marching and not to demand of them that their sacrifices should be in vain.

"I have thought in this difficult period, when so much fighting and so many critical and complicated maneuvers are going on, that it has been imperative that our policy and conduct should be upon the highest level and that honor should be our guide.

"Very few people realize how small were the forces with which Gen. Wavell [Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, British commander in the middle east]—that fine commander whom we cheered in good days and will back thru bad—how small were the forces which took the bulk of the Italian masses in Libya prisoners. In none of his successive victories could Gen. Wavell maintain in the desert or bring into action at one time more than two divisions, or about 30,000 men.

"When we reached Bengazi and what was left of Mussolini's legions had scurred back along the dusty road to Tripoli, a call was made upon us which we could not resist. Let me tell you about that call. You will remember how in November the Italian dictator fell upon the unoffending Greeks and without reason and without warning invaded their country, and how the Greek nation, reviving their classic faith, hurled his armies back at double quick.

"Meanwhile, Hitler, who had been creeping and worming his way steadily forward, doping and poisoning and pinioning one after another Hungary, Rumania, and Bulgaria, suddenly made it clear he would come to the rescue of his fellow criminal.

"Lack of unity among the Balkan states had enabled him to build up a mighty army in their midst. While nearly all the Greek troops were busy beating Italians the tremendous German military machine suddenly towered up on their other frontier.

"In their mortal peril the Greeks turned to us for succor. Strained as were our resources we could not say them nay.

"By solemn guarantee given before the war Britain had promised them her help. They declared that they would fight for their native soil even if neither of their neighbors made common cause with them and even if we left them to their fate.

U. S. Friends Won by Aid.

"But we could not do that. There are rules against that kind of thing, and to break those rules would be fatal to the honor of the British empire, without which we could neither hope nor deserve to win this hard war.

"Military defeat or miscalculation can be repaired. The fortunes of war are fickle and changing, but an act of shame would deprive us of the respect we now enjoy thruout the world.

"And this would sap the vitals of our strength. During the last year we gained by our bearing and conduct a potent hold upon the sentiments of the people of the United States. Never, never in our long history have we been held in such admiration and regard across the Atlantic ocean.

"In that great republic, now in much travail and stress of soul, it is customary to use all the many varied and solid arguments about American interests and American safety which depend upon the destruction of Hitler and his foul gang and even fouler doctrines.

"Moral Sentiments" to Rule.

"But in the long run, believe me, for I know, the action of the United States will be dictated not by a methodical calculation of profit and loss but by moral sentiments and by that gleaming flash of resolve which lifts the hearts of men and nations and springs from the spiritual foundations of human life itself.

"We for our part were of course bound to harken to the Greek appeal to the utmost limits of our strength.

"We put the case to the dominions of Australia and New Zealand, and their governments, without in any way ignoring the hazards, told us they felt the same as we did. So an important part of mobile portions of the army of the Nile was sent to Greece in fulfilment of our pledge.

"It happened that the divisions available and best suited to this task were from New Zealand and Australia, and that only half of the troops who took part in this dangerous expedition came from the mother country.

Nazis Foment "Bad Blood."

"I see that German propaganda is trying to make bad blood between us and Australia by making out that we have used them to do what we would not have asked of the British army.

"I shall leave it to Australia to deal with that taunt. Let us see what has happened. We knew, of course, that the forces we could send to Greece would not by themselves alone be sufficient to stem the German tide of invasion, but there was a very real hope that the neighbors of Greece would by our intervention be drawn to stand in line together with her while time remained.

"How nearly that came off will be known some day. The tragedy of Jugo-Slavia has been that this brave people had a government which hoped to purchase an ignoble immunity by submission to the Nazi will.

"Thus, when at last the people of Jugo-Slavia found out where they were being taken and rose in one spontaneous surge of revolt, they saved the soul and future of their country, but it was already too late to save its territory. They had not time to mobilize their armies, but were struck down by the ruthless and highly mechanized Huns' armies before they could ever bring their armies into the field.

"Great disasters have occurred in the Balkans. Jugo-Slavia has been beaten down. Only in the mountains can she continue her resistance. The Greeks have been overwhelmed.

"Their victorious Albanian army has been cut off and forced to surrender, and it has been left to the Anzacs [Australians and New Zealanders] and their British comrades to fight their way back to the sea, leaving their mark on all who hindered them.

"Jackal" Mussolini Assailed.

"I turn aside to indulge for a moment in a little light relief. I dare say you read in the newspapers that by special proclamation the Italian dictator has congratulated the Italian army in Albania on the glorious laurels they gained by the victory over the Greeks.

"Here surely is a world's record in the domain of the ridiculous and contemptible.

"This whipped jackal Mussolini, who to save his own skin made all Italy a vassal state to Hitler, comes frisking up at the side of the German tiger with yelps not only of appetite—that could be understood—but even of triumph.

"Different things strike different people different ways, but I am sure there are a great many millions in the British empire and the United States who will find a new object in life in making sure that when we come to final reckoning this absurd impostor shall be abandoned to public justice and universal scorn.

Tobruk Strongly Held.

"While these grievous events were taking place in the Balkan peninsula and in Greece, our forces in Libya have sustained a vexatious and damaging defeat. The Germans advanced sooner and in greater strength than we or our generals expected. The bulk of our armored troops, which played such a decisive part in beating the Italians, had to be refitted, and the single armed brigade which had been judged sufficient to hold the frontier until about the middle of May was worsted and its vehicles largely destroyed by a somewhat stronger German force.

"Our infantry, which did not exceed one division, had to fall back upon the very large imperial armies that had been assembled and can be nourished and maintained in the fertile delta of the Nile. The fortress of Tobruk, which flanks any German advance on Egypt, we hold strongly. There we have repulsed many attacks, causing the enemy immense losses and taking many prisoners.

"That is how the matter stands in Libya and on the Egyptian front. We must now expect the war in the Mediterranean on the sea, in the desert, and, above all, in the air, to become very fierce, varied and widespread.

Sees Possible Nazi Mistake.

"We have cleaned the Italians out of Cirenaica and it now lies with us to purge that province of Germans. That will be a harder task and we cannot expect to do it at once. You know I never try to make out that defeats are victories. I have never underrated the German as a warrior; indeed, I told you a month ago that the swift unbroken course of victories we had gained over the Italians could not possibly continue and that misfortunes must be expected.

"There is only one thing certain about war—that it is full of disappointments and also full of mistakes. It remains to be seen, however, whether it is the Germans who made mistakes in tramping down the Balkan states and making a river of blood between themselves and the Greek and Jugo-Slav peoples.

"It remains also to be seen whether they made a mistake in their attempt to invade Egypt with the forces and means of supply which they now have got.

Nazis' Position Called Bad.

"Taught by experience, I make it a rule not to prophesy about battles which have yet to be fought. This, however, I will venture to say, that I should be very sorry to see the task of the combatants in the middle east exchanged and for Gen. Wavell's armies to be in the position of the German invaders. That is only a personal opinion. I can well understand there may be different views.

"It is certain that fresh dangers besides those which threaten Egypt may come upon us in the Mediterranean. The war may spread to Spain and Morocco. It may spread westward to Turkey and Russia.

"The Germans may lay their hands for a time upon wheat lands of the Ukraine and oil wells of the Caucasus. They may dominate the Black sea. They may dominate the Caspian. Who can tell?

"We shall do our best to meet them and fight them wherever they go. But there is one thing which is certain. There is one thing which rises out of the vast whirlpool which is very sure and solid and which no one in his senses can mistake. Hitler cannot find safety from avenging justice in the east, middle east, or far east.

"In order to win this war he must either conquer this island by invasion or he must cut the ocean lifeline which joins us to the United States.

"Let us look into these alternatives, if you will bear with me for a few minutes longer.

"When I spoke to you early in February, many people believed the Nazi boastings that invasion of Britain was about to begin. It has not yet begun and with every week that passes we grow stronger on the sea, in the air, and in the numbers, quality, training and equipment of the great armies that now guard our island.

"When I compare the position at home as it is today with what it was in the summer last year, even after making allowances for a much more elaborate mechanical preparation on the part of the enemy, I feel that we have very much to be thankful for, and I believe that, provided our exertions and our vigilance are not relaxed even for a moment, we may be confident we shall give very good account of ourselves.

"More than that it would be boastful to say. Less than that it would be foolish to believe. But how about our lifeline across the Atlantic? What is to happen if so many of our merchant ships are sunk that we cannot bring in the food we need to nourish our brave people?

U-Boat Perils Increase.

"What if supplies of war materials and war weapons which the United States is seeking to send us in such enormous quantities should in large part be sunk under water? What is to happen then?

"In February, as you may remember, that bad man in one of his raving outbursts threatened us with a terrifying increase in numbers and activities of his U-boats and in his air attacks, not only on our ports but, thanks to the use of French and Norwegian harbors and thanks to the denial to us of Irish bases, upon our shipping far out on the Atlantic.

"We have taken and are taking all possible measures to meet these deadly attacks and we are now fighting against them with all our might and main. That is what is called the battle of the Atlantic which, in order to survive, we have got to win on salt water just as decisively as we did win the battle of Britain last August and September in the air.

Atlantic Battle Foremost.

"Wonderful exertions have been made by the men who build and repair our immense fleet of merchant ships and by the men who load them and unload them and, need I say, by the officers and men of the merchant navy who go out in all weathers and in the teeth of all dangers to fight for the love of their native land and for a cause they comprehend and serve.

"Still, when you think how easy it is to sink ships at sea and how hard it is to build and protect them, and when you remember that there never are less than 2,000 ships afloat and never less than three or four hundred in the danger zone, and consider the world-wide traffic we have to carry on, can you wonder that it is the battle of the Atlantic which holds first place in the thought of those upon whom rests the responsibility for procuring the victory.

U. S. Patrol Benefits Told.

"It therefore was with indescribable relief that I learned of the tremendous decisions lately taken by the President and people of the United States.

"The American fleet and flying boats have been ordered to patrol the wide waters of the western hemisphere and to warn peaceful shipping of all nations outside the combat zone of the presence of lurking U-boats or cruisers belonging to two aggressive nations.

"We British will therefore begin to concentrate our protecting forces far more upon the routes near their home and to take far heavier toll of U-boats there.

"I have felt for some time that something like this was bound to happen. The President and the congress of the United States, having duly fortified themselves by contact with their electors, have solemnly pledged their aid to Britain in this war because they deem our cause just and because they know their own interests and safety could not but be endangered if we were destroyed.

"They are taxing themselves heavily. They have passed great legislation. They have turned a large part of their gigantic industry to make munitions which we need. They even have given us and lent us weapons, valuable weapons of their own. I could not believe that they would allow the high purposes to which they have set themselves to be frustrated and the product of their skill and labor sunk to the bottom of the sea by a U-boat warfare that is conducted by Germany entirely contrary to an international agreement freely subscribed to by Germany only a few years ago.

"There is no effective blockade, only merciless murder and marauding over wide and indiscriminate areas utterly beyond control of the German sea power.

U. S. Closely "Bound with Us."

"When I said 10 weeks ago, 'give us the tools and we will finish the job,' I meant give them to us, put them within our reach, and that is what it now seems Americans are going to do and that is why I feel a very strong conviction that, tho the battle of the Atlantic will be long and hard, and its issue by no means yet determined, it has entered upon a more grim but at the same time a far more favorable phase.

"When you come to think of it, the United States is very closely bound up with us now and have engaged themselves deeply in giving us moral, material and, within the limits I have mentioned, naval support.

"It is just worth while, therefore, taking a look on both sides of the ocean at forces which are facing each other in this awful struggle from which there can be no drawing back.

"No prudent and far seeing man can doubt that eventual and total defeat of Hitler and Mussolini is certain in view of the respective and clear resolves of the British and American democracies. There are less than 70 million malignant Huns, some of whom are curable and others killable; most of whom already have engaged in holding back the Austrians, Czechs, Poles, and many other ancient races they now bully and pillage.

"The people of the British empire and the United States number nearly 200 millions in their homelands and in British dominions alone. They possess the unchallengeable command of the oceans and will soon obtain decisive superiority in the air.

"They are getting more and more technical resources and are making more steel than the rest of the world put together. They are determined that the cause of freedom shall not be trampled down, nor that the tide of world progress shall be turned back by the criminal dictators.

"While we view with sorrow and anxiety much that is happening in Europe and Africa and in Asia, we must not lose our sense of proportion and thus become discouraged or alarmed. When we face with a set eye the difficulties which lie before us, we may derive new confidence by remembering those we have already overcome.

Last Year's Dangers Worst.

"Nothing that is happening now is comparable with the dangers thru which we passed last year; nothing which can happen in the east is comparable with what is happening in the west.

"The last time I spoke to you I quoted the lines of Longfellow which President Roosevelt had written down for me in his own hand.

"I have some other lines less well known but which seem apt and precious to our thoughts tonight. I believe they will be so judged wherever the English language is spoken or the flag of freedom flies.

"'For while the tired waves, vainly breaking,
Seem here no painful inch to gain,
Far back thru creeks and inlets making
Comes silent flooding in the main,
And not by eastern windows only,
When daylight comes . . . comes in the light,
In front the sun climbs slow, how slowly,
But westward, look, the land is bright.'"

YOU DID A FINE JOB, MUSSOLINI TELLS HIS ALBANIAN WAR CHIEF

ROME, April 27, Monday (AP).—Premier Mussolini telegraphed congratulations today to Gen. Ugo Cavallero, his commander in chief in Albania, and said "remember me to everybody." The telegrams said:

"In this hour of victory, I want to recognize your indisputable merit for having prepared during four months the necessary and sufficient conditions for arriving there. These conditions consisted in breaking, as you have done, any further counter-offensive attempt from the enemy and giving everybody the moral and material impulse for recovery.

"Let my highest recognition reach you for your effort and that of your valorous collaborators in command and your troops.

"Remember me to everybody."

Poem of Hope

The two verses with which Prime Minister Winston Churchill concluded his broadcast yesterday were written by Arthur Hugh Clough in a poem entitled "Say Not the Struggle Naught Availeth." The poem expressed a resurgence of hope and encouragement after a setback in a fight. The complete poem follows:

"Say not, the struggle naught availeth,
The labor and the wounds are vain,
The enemy faints not, nor faileth,
And as things have been, they remain.

"If hopes were dupes, fears may be liars;
It may be, in yon smoke concealed,
Your comrades chase e'en now the flyers,
And but for you, possess the field.

"For while the tired waves, vainly breaking,
Seem here no painful inch to gain,
Far back, thru creeks and inlets making,
Comes silent, flooding in, the main.

"And not by eastern windows only,
When daylight comes, comes in the light;
In front, the sun climbs slow, how slowly!
But westward, look, the land is bright."

Clough, born at Liverpool in 1819, knew America well. He was brought to America at the age of 3 and passed his childhood here. He returned to England and was educated at Rugby and Oxford.

Later he lectured on classical subjects in America. One of his great literary labors was the translation of Plutarch's "Parallel Lives." He died in 1861.

HAMBURG RAIDED WITH BOMBS OF NEW HIGH POWER

British Tell of Half Mile Area Set Afire.

LONDON, April 27 (AP).—The British air force dumped cargoes of powerful new bombs on Hamburg, Germany's biggest port and second city, last night in a raid which one pilot said left a half mile area "a huge, heaving mass like a volcanic eruption."

An assault almost as violent was reported made on the big German shipbuilding yards at Bremerhaven. Other British units pounded Emden and Cuxhaven in Germany, Le Havre, France, and Ijmuiden, the Netherlands.

"Berlin, Kiel, and Bremen already have felt the force of our latest and most powerful bombs," the air ministry said. "Now Hamburg has experienced the devastation which they can cause."

Sees a Circle of Red.

One participating pilot brought back this account:

"I had with me one of the powerful bombs, and after it burst I could see a circle of red and on the rim of it, quite a distance from the center, I saw buildings going up in the air.

"Altho I have been on 31 raids I have never seen anything to match the effect of this bomb."

Other pilots said the big bombs caused raging fires elsewhere in Hamburg, sending huge clouds of black smoke billowing upward.

The Germans concentrated their Saturday night attack on the Merseyside area of Liverpool.

The air ministry reported that at least one of four ships attacked by the RAF off the coast of Norway and the Frisian islands yesterday was sunk and another badly damaged. Antiaircraft ships near the coasts were strafed.

A British pilot diving to within 100 yards of a Nazi airdrome in Norway, between Bergen and Sund, was credited with destroying two German planes attempting to take off.

South Coast Area Bombed.

A SOUTH COAST AREA OF ENGLAND, April 28, Monday (AP).—German air raiders inflicted one of the worst raids of the war on this region last night and early today. Many incendiary bombs were dropped followed by unusually heavy explosive bombs. The bombers flew over in successive waves for several hours and business and residential sections were badly damaged.

There were other raids over widespread sections of Britain, including East Anglia and northeast Scotland. London had no night alarm.

Claim 39,000 Tons of Ships Sunk.

BERLIN, April 27 (AP).—Intensification of the new sea warfare in the Atlantic and around the British Isles was announced today, the high command claiming that submarines sank five merchantmen totaling 39,148 tons in the Atlantic, with Nazi airmen accounting for two more freighters and a destroyer and damage to a third merchantman in English waters yesterday.

SPRING WEATHER LURES BOATSMEN TO LAKE FRONT

Beautiful spring weather lured most of Chicago outdoors yesterday. Parks and forest preserves were crowded with strollers and picnickers. Walks along the lake front were filled with promenaders. Thousands of cars crowded the boulevards and highways. The lake front showed the approach of the boating season. More motorcraft and sailboats than usual were out, and docks and boatyards were active with boatsmen scraping, painting, and repairing small craft which had been laid up during winter.

Wants New Name

GLORIA WOOD.

Hollywood, Cal., April 27 (AP).—Actress Gloria Wood says she doesn't want to trade on the name of her father, Director Sam Wood. So she's petitioned for the legal name of K. T. Stevens. Gloria, 20 years old, has appeared on Broadway as Katherine Stevens.

RUSSIAN PATROL BOAT CAPTURES FOREIGN VESSEL

MOSCOW, April 27 (AP).—An unidentified foreign ship which entered Russian waters without permission was reported today to have been captured by a soviet patrol boat.

A dispatch in Komsomol Pravda, newspaper of the communist Youth league, said the ship was detected during a storm; that it tried to escape by ramming the patrol boat, but was boarded by soviet sailors and seized after a scuffle with the crew.

The Russians brought the prize ship into port under sails after the captain smashed his engines. Location of the incident was not given.

GIRL IS RAPED BY 9 MEN AND CRUELLY BEATEN

A young woman employed in the loop was in Holy Cross hospital yesterday recovering from the brutality of nine men who beat and raped her Saturday night.

The victim was changing street cars at Roosevelt road and Western avenue about 9:30 p. m. when two men seized her and forced her to accompany them to a flat near Western avenue and Taylor street, where they beat her into helplessness and raped her. Five more men arrived a few minutes later, and each raped her.

The victim, who is 27 years old, lost consciousness. When she revived the rapists were gone. Presently two more men came in and asked her what she was doing in their flat. She told them her story and they offered to drive her home. But they drove to a secluded spot where both raped her. They threw her from the car at 70th street and Campbell avenue, according to Policemen Harry Rulo and Frank Janousek, who investigated.

CHINESE DRIVE JAPS BACK NEAR RAILWAY CENTER

HONGKONG, April 27 (AP).—A strong Chinese counteroffensive south of Chukai, important point on the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway, cost the Japanese upwards of 4,000 casualties and forced them to fall back to the north, Chinese Central News agency reports declared tonight. The counterattack followed a Japanese attempt to trap Chinese forces in the region in a four column onslaught supported by 50 planes. The Japanese recently swept in force into Chekiang province in a move interpreted by some observers as striking at a Chungking supply route.

Slipcover everything
~EVEN YOUR WALLS

Gone is the sober slipcover. Gone like the horse and buggy and the gas lamp. Slipcovers have the fashion urge. And at Marshall Field's you will see what big and exciting things are happening to them.

They're exultant with ruffles. Gloating over new fringes and braids. Proud of new high kick pleats. Glad of new fabric combinations. They're going new places, too. In unbroken surfaces of strong color they stretch across walls, sometimes boasting folds, sometimes taut like wallpaper.

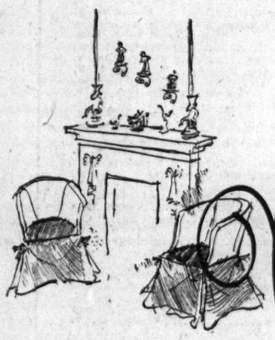
Capriciously they embrace waste baskets . . . cover the feverish look of Summer radiators . . . gather coquettishly into a lampshade . . . startle a prosaic footstool. Marshall Field's makes them gloriously different . . . makes them to perfection! They're fitted, cut, tailored and sewn by sure hands. Marshall Field's knows how to slipcover everything—even the walls. Ninth Floor, Middle, Wabash

Fair vanity with valance and skirt puffed as a dirndl. The pert stool has a surprise finish of ruffling. Slipcover ideas are plentiful at Marshall Field's.

Ah—lamp light peers through printed cretonne shades bursting with color. Count on Marshall Field's to pipe them firmly, line them beautifully.

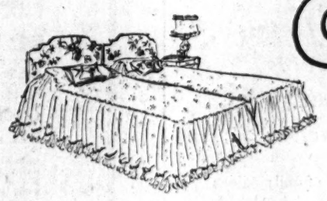
My how you've changed! A waste basket wearing a ballet skirt rioting with ruffles. And the boudoir chair just as charming. It costs so little!

Look what Marshall Field's is up to now! A table and chair modestly wearing pleated skirts (a fine way to slip Summer on to your furniture).



Exit the somber chair cover! Here are two, flaunting new high kick corner pleats; accented with giddy bows. Made the Marshall Field way.

Marshall Field & Company



Slipcovers go to bed, too! The headboards brightly cloaked. Giddy, yes! But what fun—what craftsmanship—Marshall Field's saw to that.

Radiators are taking to cover under gay chintz. Slipcover yours! They'll look sleet-cool. Finished with sturdy seams—the neat Marshall Field kind.

That covered-up look for hassocks, pillows and daybeds—very trig! And Marshall Field's has a way of combining fabrics in ingenious ways.

THE PLEASANT-TASTING EFFERVESCENT SALINE

IF BRITAIN LOSES SHE WILL TURN ON U. S., SAYS GIBSON

Aid to Allies Head Predicts Hymns of Hate.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

England will turn on the United States with a hymn of hate if Hitler wins the battle of Britain. This was the view of Ernest W. Gibson Jr., national chairman of the committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, who spoke yesterday before the 7th annual conference of the Chicago division of the American Jewish congress at the Morrison hotel.

Ernest W. Gibson.

Gibson told the representatives of the 305 Jewish organizations making up the congress that "we in America must reorient our philosophy," as Hitler's people have done, and "see if we don't think our government is created for the whole people of America, and not for you and me as individuals." He admitted that Hitler had capitalized on this philosophy by directing it into selfish channels, but said: "Each of us, I believe, has a yearning to be of service to some higher group than the individual, some higher power, such as our country or our government."

Sees Appeasers Taking Over.

The Aid to Allies leader said the British navy will be of no value to America if Hitler wins, and that it might actually be used against this country.

"If England falls, we cannot count on receiving the English navy," Gibson declared. "England will not fall until she has been so beaten to her knees that some appeaser takes over the government of England, some appeaser who is willing to take orders from Berlin and who will sign an appeasement peace.

"Then a controled radio and press will tell the English people that they had to surrender because America did not help out. A hymn of hate will be started against America over these controled radios. It was that which was done in France when France fell. A hymn of hate was then started against England. So, when England falls, the English government will not allow its navy to come to help defend America."

Gibson's Gloomy Picture.

Gibson said the best the United States could hope for would be that British naval officers would scuttle their ships, adding that the worst to be feared would be that the fleet would be turned against the United States.

The Atlantic ocean was swept away as an invasion barrier by the former Vermont senator by citing the long American shore line which would have to be defended against a far superior navy.

"The ocean was never a great barrier to another nation seeking to invade this country," Gibson asserted. "It is only because the British navy still controls the sea that the British Isles have not been conquered before. The English had no trouble landing troops in our country during the revolutionary war. In 1814 the English, burned the capitol at Washington and very nearly captured New Orleans.

Sees Problem in Canada.

"In those days they came over with the aid of the wind. Today they can come with the aid of the most modern methods of transportation the world has ever known."

Gibson then cast doubt on the permanence of friendly relations between the United States and Canada.

"If we ask coöperation of Canada at a time when England has a Hitler dominated government, we might find ourselves in the same position as were the English when, with Gen. De Gaulle and the so-called Free-French, an attempt was made to seize Dakar in Africa."

In order to get American material aid to Britain, Gibson advocated the leasing of additional destroyers and other naval units to England at once, and the extension of the neutrality zone to Iceland.

On Thoughts of Freedom.

Gibson closed his address with an appeal to the country to change its way of thinking about individual freedom, and to adopt a government centered attitude such as he said Hitler had capitalized on.

"Deep down within us there is a yearning to be of service to some higher group than the individual; some higher power such as our country or our government," Gibson explained. "Hitler has capitalized on this innate yearning of the people for a service to a higher unit, but he has directed it in selfish channels.

"Now we in America must reorient our philosophy and see if we don't want to be of service to a government for the whole people; for a government that preaches security and freedom for a whole people, and not slavery for those who oppose us."

Fosdick Sees Dictatorship.

New York, April 27 [Special].—The Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick told his congregation in the Riverside church this morning that the United States faces social revolution, economic chaos, dictatorship, and communism if the country joins belligerent participation in the European war.

"We must be tolerant," he said, "of deep differences of judgment and must respect the conscience of those with whom we cannot agree."

John D. Rockefeller Jr., who has a son in the army, today declared for all-out aid to Britain. Rockefeller's views were contained in a letter to a New York publisher. He said he hated war and had followed the ways of peace where possible.

"But when all peaceful methods have failed," he added, "and the issue was worth standing for at any price, even if it meant to fight, I have never hesitated to see it thru on that basis."

Lewis W. Douglas, chairman of the policy board of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, urged the use of convoys, or any other method found to be effective, in getting supplies to Britain.

Fears for South America.

Washington, D. C., April 27 [Special].—William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France, told a China relief meeting here tonight that the present policy of helping China and Britain might lead to war and added that peace under totalitarian terms would be intolerable.

"We know," he said, "that if the British navy should be eliminated we would see a totalitarian army and air force in South America, and all Europe, Asia, and Africa would be organized against us."

"Life Without Liberty Worthless."

Syracuse, N. Y., April 27 [Special].—Dr. Maurice L. Perlzweig of London, chairman of the British section of the World Jewish congress, told the National Federation of Jewish Men's Clubs here tonight that Britain will not betray civilization by making a sham peace, which, he said, international busybodies and appeasers are promoting in neutral countries. "The people of Britain," he said, "have come to the conviction that life without liberty is not worth living."

IRELAND STRIVES FOR NEUTRALITY, SAYS MINISTER

Nation Will Fight Only if Attacked, Rally Told.

Ireland will not enter the European war unless she is attacked "and neither economic pressure nor threats of military aggression nor promises of an Irish Utopia after the war" will change the nation's stand, Gen. Frank Aiken, Irish minister of defense, said last night at a massmeeting of Irish societies of Chicago in the Civic Opera house. Thirty-five hundred persons heard his talk.

"I have been asked whether there is any chance of our people changing their attitude to the war," Gen. Aiken said. "There is none. We have learned a little wisdom in the hard school of experience and if we fight in this war it will only be when we are attacked.

"In such circumstances we can be sure we are fighting on a clear issue: for the defense of our own free democratic institutions, for the defense of our right to utilize the resources God gave us for the cultural and material well-being of our own people."

Seeks Arms and Foodstuffs.

Gen. Aiken, who is in the United States to obtain arms and foodstuffs for Ireland, said his country had no illusions as to its ability to resist indefinitely the full weight of an attack by any major power, but added:

"We believe however, that with proper equipment the resolute resistance with which we would oppose an attacker would make the advantages to be gained fall short of the cost of attempting to gain them."

He said some American newspapers had suggested that Ireland "should be made to surrender our sovereign right to declare war" in return for the purchase of food, arms, and ships from the United States.

"Lest any of you have any doubt about our attitude on the matter," Gen. Aiken declared, "let me say once and for all: The sovereign rights of the Irish people will not be bartered for food or ships or arms or for any other consideration whatsoever.

"The Irish people are united as never before upon the policy of neutrality and we will not destroy Irish unity and thus our ability to resist aggression from any quarter by declaring war or taking any steps leading toward war on any side.

"And that goes too for giving or leasing the ports, and for any other plan which would project our people into war."

If not, NOW is the time to Act!

THE German war-machine is within reach of completing the conquest of Europe. It is about to crush the last of the nations whose leaders cared too little and too late. It is nosing into the Near East. Unless checked it will be but a matter of time until it commands the West Coast of Africa within striking distance of South America. If England falls the Nazi warlords will be in a position to seek mastery of the seven seas. The declared goal of the aggressors is to dominate the world and enslave the democracies. Hour by hour, the battle line of civilization is moving toward us.

Because we realize this we have sent the following telegram to every Senator and Congressman:

"Hitler has declared war on democracies. We are at war now. The purposes of the lend-lease act can no longer be made effective. Catastrophe is at our door. We believe this country must now declare a state of national emergency which shall include use of our armed forces under our own flag to control the whole North Atlantic area, the severance of diplomatic relations with the aggressor nations, the apprehension of fifth columnists, the convoy of food and materials to the fighting forces of democracy, the use of the American navy and air force under our own command, and the full use of the power and majesty of the U. S. to preserve the freedom of the U. S. and of freemen everywhere who are fighting for us."

I hereby join The Fight for Freedom Committee. I agree with the point of view expressed in its telegram to Congress. I will support any action toward the end of defeating Hitler.

OPEN DUAL WAR ON BAT SLAYINGS AND GAMING GANG

Link Between Killings and Syndicate Indicated.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Combined action by State's Attorney Courtney and Police Commissioner Allman was directed yesterday toward two objectives—solution of labor and industry's bat murders and shutting off the revenue of the Nitti-Stanton-Humphreys crime and gambling syndicate.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for Courtney, said the slaying last Wednesday of Anton Gorczak may have been done by the same men who killed Marinus Hvid in December, 1939, and Lloyd Rourke in February, 1938. Each was clubbed to death by goons.

Gilbert said that back of each killing was an indication that organized criminals allied with Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti had sent the club wielders on their murderous tasks. He said Nitti and his chief aids, Danny [Public Enemy] Stanton, and Murray [The Camel] Humphreys, had interests in labor unions and trade associations as well as in gambling houses.

Technique Called Similar.

"The technique in each of the bat murders was the same," Gilbert said. "Two men swinging clubs hunted their victims and pounced on them savagely, keeping up the beating until they had crushed the skulls of the unfortunate men. They apparently were hired sluggers. It seems probable they were sent out not to kill but only to maim.

"If murder had been intended in the beginning, guns would have been used. It appears that the men who killed Rourke, Hvid, and Gorczak exceeded the expectations of their employers.

"Whether the same goons were used in each murder, it is possible the same group paid for each head smashing. That's what we are trying to develop."

Details of Slaying Recalled.

In the Rourke case a labor dispute was said to have provided the motive for the slaying, and back of the labor group whose wrath Rourke had incurred were Nitti and Stanton, Gilbert recalled. In the Hvid murder, a trade association and a union had joined forces against Hvid, who was a garage owner, but no evidence ever was obtained against higherups believed to have ordered the attack on him.

The switching of 15 district police captains and two supervising captains Saturday by Commissioner Allman was part of the antigang program, it was explained yesterday. The captains in their new districts, starting today, are under orders to shut off all sources of revenue to the Nitti, Stanton, Humphreys gang.

Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, is to appear in court today as an observer at the trial of four employés of the Colony club, 744 Rush street, arrested March 6 on charges of gambling.

He said the commission was anxious to break the political grip of the gangsters and he said he agreed with Gilbert that the gambling syndicate bosses are the higherups in the bat murders.

Fire Kills Woman, 2 Men Held in Unguarded Jail

Belle Vernon, Pa., April 27 (AP).—Three prisoners, a woman and two men perished today when a fire damaged the unguarded lockup. The dead were Frances Novosel, 26 years old; James Moran, 57, and Nick Pushnak. The woman and Moran were charged with drunkenness and Pushnak with disorderly conduct. Police Chief Frank Camino said Miss Novosel apparently had set fire to rags and a chair and then thrown them out of her cell when it became too hot.

SAFETY COUNCIL MEMBER HELD AS DRUNKEN DRIVER

Charles S. Traer, president of the Acme Steel company and a member of the Greater Chicago Safety council, was arrested yesterday at 16th street and the Outer drive and locked up in the central police station on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Traer, who is 50 years old and lives at 6901 Oglesby avenue, was later freed on $100 cash bond for appearance today in Safety court. Sergt. Maurice Begner and Policeman Helge Peterson of the park police said they followed Traer's automobile south from Ontario street on the Outer drive, and that the car was weaving and moving very slowly. At 16th street Traer killed his engine, and when approached by the police, he asked them to drive him home, they said. Traer denied he was intoxicated, and said he had only one drink. He was accompanied by Mrs. Traer and a second woman.

BRICK TOSSER ARRESTED.

Alfred Brandt, 62 years old, of 822 Newport avenue, was arrested yesterday while he was tossing bricks thru windows in a restaurant at 3406 North Clark street.

"He just wanted to know what newspaper I read!"

Confusion may be a natural by-product of poll-taking on a woman's college campus. But facts come forth, too.

From the preferences expressed repeatedly at the country's leading feminine colleges, you can rightly deduce that powdered noses are most often buried in one particular newspaper. For The New York Times is the student body's overwhelming choice — in Vassar, Wellesley, Barnard, Smith, Bryn Mawr, Sweet Briar and Mount Holyoke among others.

Not only in college but afterwards, The New York Times is the choice of bright and active women who want to keep up with life as it is being lived today . . . a fact with considerable significance for advertisers who wish to sell their products to the wives and mothers of today — and tomorrow.

Save Our Republic

MR. ROOSEVELT CALLS THEM TRAITORS.

The attacks upon Col. Lindbergh, Gen. Wood, Gen. Hammond, and other citizens who have opposed armed intervention by the United States in European and Asiatic wars are discreditable to the persons who make them. The abusive terms in which they phrase their criticism reflect upon their own intelligence and upon the quality of their loyalty to their country.

Mr. Roosevelt is chief spokesman along this line but he has numerous other mouthpieces who follow his lead and repeat what he says. Mr. Roosevelt, in speaking of Col. Lindbergh, said that altho America's most distinguished aviator was a reserve officer he had not been called into active service and that to understand it you would have to go back to the civil war. He explained himself by remarking that altho foreigners were allowed to fight on both sides as the cause enlisted their sympathies, the Vallandighams, or appeasers, were not permitted to serve in either the northern or southern armies.

Vallandigham was a northern sympathizer of the south who directed treasonable activities under the full protection of the American flag and organized the work of a body of Copperheads, so called from the snake which strikes without warning. Mr. Roosevelt added that there were appeasers who wanted Washington to quit. He did not carry his allusion on to include the colonial tories who, in their opposition to the war for independence and in their support of King George and his armies, engaged in conspiracies, culminating in the treachery of Benedict Arnold.

An opponent of present policies and of current actions might be tempted to observe that Mr. Roosevelt's line is not miles away from the tory line in the revolution.

The citizens who are unconscionably vilified by the chief of the war party and his followers include many men and women of distinguished service to their country, men and women whose motives cannot be questioned honestly or intelligently by any true American. Certainly the service record of Gen. Wood and Gen. Hammond puts their loyalty to their country above all question or challenge, and Col. Lindbergh has proved himself to be one of the few persons in the United States who had any conception of what was being prepared in Europe, of the mistakes which were being made, and of the consequences which would follow. Many of our own alleged experts, unfortunately in the direction of affairs here, have yet to learn what it is all about and how it is being done.

Mr. Roosevelt, in something more direct than innuendo, calls loyal American citizens traitors when they disagree with his policy of making war. That reveals more than a strange state of mind. It indicates a bitterness and heated temper which does not fit well the national requirements of the office Mr. Roosevelt for the third time occupies. In these very perilous times no comfort can be found in such utterances by the present occupant of the White House.

Americans who support the position taken by Col. Lindbergh, Gen. Hammond, Gen. Wood, and millions of others, are not Nazi agents, they are not Fascists, fifth columnists, Vallandighams, or traitors. They are Americans who believe that the welfare, safety, and future not only of the United States, of which they are thinking first, but of the civilized world will be best served by keeping this war from American shores and sending no American armed forces to seek it abroad. They can answer the argument that they are deceiving themselves and others. They will meet the interventionists in any debate upon questions of policy. Many of them know that there is a hard decision to make. They would agree that the changing or a changed world presents new and grave questions. They are willing to face the difficulties.

They cannot believe and they honestly cannot concede that America is inevitably drawn into the wars which periodically shake Europe to its foundations and which often produce a new order of things. The alternative to their line of reasoning is a policy of despair. It is a policy of interminable agony and they see calamity in it for millions of their fellow citizens. They are not answered when the President of the United States says they are traitors.

This calumny, when repeatedly thrown at Col. Lindbergh, is resented by fair minded people who have still kept their balance. Mr. Roosevelt is exposed to the comment that he is angered to find himself at a disadvantage in his own field of speech and surpassed in it by a man he cannot equal in the latter's field of science, adventure, and discovery. Mr. Roosevelt as a young man never took the hazards of adventure and discovery on land or in the air, and altho he says he has seen and hates war, it was to him a painless one, without sweat, mud, and blood.

If we go into this war, Mr. Roosevelt's experiences again will be vicarious. Col. Lindbergh's probably will not be.

THE FIREWORKS BILL.

The bill to prohibit the retail sale of dangerous fireworks anywhere in Illinois, beginning next year, was to have been called up in the house a few days ago, but for one reason or another action was postponed. It is to be hoped that the postponement will be a brief one.

In one sense, of course, it doesn't make much difference whether the bill passes or not. It isn't as if every child in Illinois were going to have his eyes blown out on July 4. Probably not more than a couple of dozen youngsters will be blinded for life and not very many more will suffer the loss of fingers. Probably, too, the damage from fires which might have been prevented will not exceed a couple of hundred thousand dollars in any year and the sum may actually prove much less.

Still there are those like the members of the Firemen's association who favor the bill even tho they recognize that it will not cure all the ills of the world. The Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness takes much the same view of the matter. The members of this society think that it is worth an effort to safeguard even a few children from a lifelong blackout.

The majority of the people of Illinois share this prejudice. Maybe the members of the legislature would make no great mistake if they accepted the verdict of public opinion and passed the bill without any more delay.

TEEMING AND TENTING IN WASHINGTON.

A member of the United States civil service commission was credited with the statement in Thursday's TRIBUNE that 360,000 persons had been placed in civil service jobs in the army and navy in the last 10½ months. A large percentage of the jobs were in Washington. Besides the new civil servants there are those who have won political jobs, the desk men in uniform, and the dollar a year men. And, in addition to all these, there are the salesmen and executives of the corporations who are undertaking to supply the government with 30 or 40 billion dollars' worth of war-stuffs. Is it any wonder that there is a state of congestion at Washington that is without parallel anywhere?

A visitor to Washington recently was unable to obtain a room at any of the leading hotels. After calling at one small hotel after another, he finally was given lodging for the night for $6 in one of the older places, a little above the level of a flophouse. That night all rooms in the place were taken there, too, and 11 men slept on cots in the basement. Four women spent the night in chairs in the lobby.

Soon people who are obliged to go to the national capital on business will stretch out for the night in the parks. But space there may be at a premium if the expansion of the burocracy goes on, and some enterprising householders will offer transients the use of their lawns for a nightly green's fee.

Other facilities in Washington also are strained to the utmost. Office space is not to be had. The leading restaurants are for those who can arrive early or are willing to stand in line. Washington has more taxis per capita than any other city, but it is impossible to get a cab to take you to your train between 4 and 5 o'clock, when the bureaus close for the day.

Many of the government activities really belong elsewhere. Several departments of the government should be moved because Washington is remote from the activities to which they apply. Absentee regulation is even more objectionable than absentee ownership.

To begin with, the Interstate Commerce commission and the other units of government dealing with transportation should be transferred to Chicago, the railroad center of the country. The social security board should move its operations out here to the center of the industrial population, where it will be most accessible to the people who are affected. And there are other bureaus, commissions, boards, and administrations which should be taken out of the capital to provide elbow room and breathing space for those who must function at the seat of our national government.

If the majority party members of the Illinois delegation in congress were on their toes they would see that action was taken to promote efficiency in government at Washington and at the same time fill up some of Chicago's vacant office space.

PORTUGUESE ISLANDS.

The officially controled Spanish press is calling on Portugal to renounce its long affiliation with the British. It may be reasonably anticipated that if Hitler gets a right of way to Gibraltar and sends his army into Spain, Portugal also will be brought under Nazi control by either diplomatic or military means.

In that event any proper conception of the defense of the western hemisphere must take the Portuguese island possessions into account. If the United States really intends to defend South America it should take them. This could in all probability be done peacefully and legally. Portuguese foreign policy is for all practical purposes controled by the British, as it has been for more than 200 years, and in view of their present obligations to the United States the British could hardly refuse their influence in bringing about the transfer.

The Azores, 800 miles west of Portugal, are within 1,700 miles of Bermuda and about 2,000 miles of New York. They would be the logical starting point, in the hands of a hostile European power, for a direct attack on the Caribbean. They are too far from the European mainland to be attacked successfully by air, and are within the operating range of the American Atlantic fleet, which means that the fleet could protect an advance base in the islands.

Portugal holds two other island groups, the Madeiras, some 300 miles off Morocco, and the Cape Verde Islands, an equal distance off the cape of that name at the western bulge of the African continent. Bases in these groups would have to be supported from the Azores, a difficult but perhaps not impossible task.

If the feverish gentlemen in Washington really believe what they are saying about the danger of a Nazi attack on Brazil launched from Dakar, in Africa, they should welcome an American base in the Cape Verdes. No maritime expedition would dare start across the South Atlantic from Dakar if it had to face the menace of even an air and submarine force in the Cape Verde Islands, which are almost directly on the flank of the route to South America.

IOWA NO LONGER A GRETNA GREEN.

[Des Moines Register.]

A Milwaukee man and woman flew to Dubuque to be married a few hours before Iowa's new marriage health certificate law went into effect. But they were probably the last couple to come to Iowa to evade similar laws in their own state. The rush is now over.

There will, of course, be some complaints from border county officials whose fee-income will be reduced. The experience of other states indicates this.

When Illinois, alone in this area, required health qualifications for issuance of a marriage license, many couples journeyed to neighboring states, including Iowa, to be married. Now Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Indiana no longer invite them, and Missouri and Kentucky are a long way from northern Illinois.

Illinois hears fewer complaints now. Evasion is more difficult. Far more important in effecting popular acceptance of the law, however, is its demonstrated contribution toward better health and fewer congenital ills.

When each state is completely surrounded, as Illinois almost is today, with neighbors having such health protection laws, complaints will disappear entirely and public health in general will be benefited that much more.

SIC TRANSIT GLORIA.

The death of the Boston Transcript in its 111th year, scheduled for day after tomorrow, may not mean much, at first glance, to newspaper readers in Chicago. Yet when one considers how many Chicago families have been founded by migrants from New England, the sad event should find numerous mourners here, for these pilgrims brought the New England state of mind and conscience into the middle west, and the Transcript was, for generations, a fortress of that tradition.

It was an encyclopedia as well as a newspaper, and its old-fashioned blanket sheets, carrying wide columns of closely printed writing in the grand style, stood for Boston's ancient mood of earnest living and sober thinking. Harvard students could cut classes thru four happy years and still pass as gentlemen and scholars by giving a little attention every day to the music, drama, literary, and art departments in the Transcript.

The late H. T. Parker, its drama critic, was a marvel of zeal, learning and industry, and he rolled out columns of gracefully phrased prose with the ease of a cuttlefish exuding ink. At the week-ends he went to New York to report the Broadway stage with equal copiousness. Whenever Chicago labored and brought forth plays unknown to the east, the Transcript published full accounts of them; and we might add that for a long term of years such articles were written by the present Linemaster. Felix Borowski, Chicago music critic, is also well represented in the massive files of this cultural institution.

During the last 10 years the Transcript tried to modernize itself, but the effort was futile. It was like trying to streamline a dinosaur. . . . Whenever a newspaper ceases publication, ink-stained wretches all over the country mourn. In the case of the Transcript, which has been a useful reference work from coast to coast, many a veteran exchange editor will lament the disappearance of a rich field for his shears.

INFANT MAJESTIES.

Of infant monarchs I have had enough,
[Forgive me if I seem unduly gruff];
The Boy Kings that I read of
I've satisfied my need of—
I like my thrones held down by sterner stuff.

Remember Richard II. [Plantagenet]?
At 8 he studied royal etiquette,
When 10, and still a drooler,
That stripling was a ruler—
A fact that many Englishmen regret.

King Michael of Roumania [recall?]
Was crowned when he was infinitely small.
If he were mine he would have
—Don't you agree he should have?—
Been playing with a hoop and rubber ball.

In Tibet, fabled Buddhist land of yore,
There reigns a tot of 6, and furthermore,
He's called the Dalai Lama,
And he should be with his mamma—
Tibet, I hope this doesn't lead to war!

Story of the Tell-Tale Hands.

It was a curious lamp, with an inverted copper cone for a shade and a spiral of glass for a base. It stood on a circular table whose surface it shared with a white telephone, a small gilt clock, and a silver cigaret box and ash tray. The lamp was left burning thru the night, illuminating the objects standing there without seriously violating the darkness of the room itself.

Besides the white telephone and those other modern necessities on the table, only hands were revealed in the light of the lamp. Only three pairs of hands were ever revealed by the lamp during its long vigils in that particular household, but these appeared there with such regularity that they told a tale.

First, during the earliest hours of the evening, two large masculine hands always appeared in the light. They busied themselves with the white telephone, dialed a number with a blunt first-finger, constantly made use of the silver cigaret box and crushed out half-consumed cigarets in the ash tray.

Later, hours later, when the ash tray had been filled to overflowing, two, pale, scarlet-nailed hands always revealed themselves to the light. They invariably placed beside the white telephone an evening bag, a single orchid, a gold pin, and one by one a surprising number of flexible bracelets, unclasped from a shadowy forearm.

And in the early morning, when the light of the lamp had paled, there were the worn, servile hands that always emptied the ash tray, retrieved the wilting orchid, passed a timorous finger across the glittering bracelets, and finally darkened the lamp itself.

THE ETERNAL CONTRIB.

So many times I've tried, more than a few,
To slant my contributions for "The Line"
And sent my offerings as others do
That, in my estimation, rated fine
But they do not appear. Then I review
And try again with something else of mine,
But still it fails to click. I wish I knew
Of some rich gem for others to enshrine,
Or a forgotten quip I might renew,
Or some sarcasm that I might refine,
Or an old-fashioned tale I could subdue,
Or some verse for that literary shrine.
With optimistic zeal I still aspire
To some day send what merits its desire.

Hi Pockets.

Letter from Man in a Bow Tie.

Dear Linemaster: You recently reported my difficulty in obtaining bow ties in the Chicago shops. Well, sir, perhaps I did not look in the right places, or perchance I am a shrewd little advertiser, and your column is a good advertising medium; for the responses were more or less satisfactory. The net result included a natty Charlie Chaplin effect—ready tied; a funereal Tuxedo item, a Ward McAllister [who I ain't] splendor, and something elegant for a tail coat, which I haven't got. Now, would you mind informing your readers that I have encountered some difficulty in obtaining the right kind of automobile, good vintages of champagne, caviar, smoked sturgeon, and a first edition of Shakespeare's sonnets?

HELP THE PHYSICIAN TO HELP YOU.

PHYSICIANS are useful members of society. At any rate, most of us think so when we are in trouble. But how considerate are we about giving them the best possible opportunities to exercise the healing art? Many of our present day ailments will surrender if they are attacked promptly upon their appearance. Procrastination is the thief of health, as well as of time.

Just this morning I ran into a colleague in the hospital laboratory who was bemoaning the fact that one of his patients had developed a malignant growth in the throat. Altho the victim had been hoarse for several months, he didn't think it "amounted to anything." He had noted an important sign—namely, that the huskiness would increase at times and diminish at others. Radium, X-ray, or surgery could have removed the offending tissue completely in the early stage. As it is, he is now facing intensive and uncomfortable treatments, if not loss of the larynx with the substitution of an artificial voice box.

Little maladies—when neglected—may become dangerous to life. This does not mean that every twinge should disturb us. But pain is an alarm clock that cannot be ignored if the bell keeps ringing. With cramps that are persistent and disabling, or when they are accompanied by "that sick feeling" it is wise to find the cause. In fact, any symptom which is abnormal, unusual, or severe should be tracked to its lair. Gnawing or stabbing distress in the region of the stomach or in the chest may mean heart involvement. While there are scores of other explanations, if the sufferer is in middle life, exertion followed by such discomfort calls for attention. The origin may be relatively insignificant—but let's make sure.

Again, we should be able and willing to describe accurately every untoward manifestation. The medical man will be able to winnow the wheat from the chaff. Give him plenty of time. He is not a mind reader; neither is he gifted with second sight. It may be that two or three visits to his office, with certain laboratory tests, may be necessary before he can render a worth while opinion. Checking the pulse and the temperature, and glancing at the tongue is utterly inadequate. No one can examine the chest carefully with the patient fully clothed.

If you don't like his verdict, or if you feel justified in voicing disagreement, tell him so. He will be only too glad to direct you to some capable man for an independent inventory of your complaints. Not long ago a friend who had been under the care of a neighborhood physician for many years resented a particular diagnosis and so expressed himself. A mutually agreed upon consultant was called in—and the decision was even less to his liking. The experience served to convince the patient that his regular counselor had his interests at heart and that he could adhere with safety to the regimen prescribed.

If you find a good doctor, stick to him. This means one who is honest and well trained, and who will give you his best at all times. Medical shopping profits no one. The general practitioner in a small community understands his people far better than the most skilled specialist. He sees them frequently and he possesses an accurate knowledge of the stock from which they come. He knows how to allay apprehension, when to minimize symptoms that are trivial, and when to recommend some drastic—but essential—procedure.

Don't demand a bottle of medicine. As a rule, the best physicians use the fewest remedies. Fortunately, there are valuable drugs that can be relied upon and these may be employed whenever the need arises. But the doctor who issues a dozen prescriptions is probably hoping that some one will "hit the spot."

PROMISES TO JUGO-SLAVIA.

Riverside, Ill., April 23.—The average man on the street will probably never be able to fathom the full extent of the bitter hatred we have kindled in the hearts of the Croatian and Serbian people. Because of the implicit faith and reliance which they placed in the promises of "all out aid" assured them by our government, their land is laid waste and soaked with the blood of their people.

Before the invasion Jugo-Slavia was literally overrun with English and American agents, both official and unofficial, who employed every known device of coercion and trickery to prevent the Jugo-Slavs from taking a too friendly attitude toward the axis powers.

England of course was at war, and it was but natural that her representatives should try to get an ally which otherwise might prove rather troublesome if permitted to enter into a pact with her enemies. Alone she could not hope to swing the official sentiment, but with the promises which were dangled around by our own representatives they were induced to repudiate the pact agreed upon with the axis.

We made them, officially, promises which no person endowed with even the most elementary degree of intelligence knew we could keep; promises we had no intention of fulfilling. We never had any intention of rendering them military aid, and we couldn't even if we had wished to do so.

Our own military experts, if consulted, could have given the information in advance that it would be physically impossible to land an army, or even military equipment, in time to be of any value whatever.

Our own people were likewise grossly misled by manufactured falsehoods into believing that the Jugo-Slavs had a powerful army, strong enough to resist invasion for an indefinite time. Again our experts could have informed us that their army was nowhere near on a par with the Polish army at the start of the war, that their arms and equipment were obsolete, insufficient, and with munitions to supply their troops for not more than 30 days, and no armament plants to produce more.

Rather than consult our own official files or rely upon the judgment of our military officials, a shot was made in the dark in the hope that some miracle might keep the blood of a war-torn people from our doorstep. Would it not be wise to exert a little more prudence and intelligence where human lives are at stake? A. F. BRONWELL.

CAN HITLER ORGANIZE HIS CONQUESTS?

Chicago, April 22.—Those who have followed the history of Europe during the last few years will find much to agree with in the analysis of Nazi successes contained in the leading editorial of today's TRIBUNE, "Hitler's Europe." But elementary logic compels dissent from the conclusions reached by the writer of the editorial.

I think that the writer of the editorial is bound to agree that not until Hitler's armed forces are weakened by a military defeat will there be any chance of a successful uprising of the conquered peoples of Europe. If Britain goes down for lack of the necessary supplies, the last chance of a military defeat of Hitler in Europe goes glimmering, and with it all hope of successful revolts of the subject nations.

Thus the writer's own statements hardly support his assumption that Hitler has merely "temporary control over a seething Europe." On the contrary, if Britain is defeated there will be nothing to prevent the achievement of Hitler's plan for Europe, namely, a powerful economic machine, directed by and managed for the benefit of a "master race" of some 80,000,000 Germans under the absolute domination of a military hierarchy. With these people in control of all armament and all heavy industry, imbued with military discipline and under the orders of the best general staff the world has ever seen, it would be the height of wishful thinking to assume that the rich but militarily weak countries of South America would not be the object of aggression.

We Americans may be "the richest and most resourceful people in the world," as THE TRIBUNE proudly boasts, but will we be in a position this year or next to defend the entire western hemisphere? Yet, according to a recent Gallup poll, 88 per cent of the American people favor armed intervention in South America should a hostile European power secure a foothold there. The immediate future presents little likelihood of "bombs falling on Omaha," but if Hitler secures control of the eastern and southern Atlantic by conquering Britain before the completion of our two-ocean navy, we can be fairly certain that American boys would shortly be fighting—and dying—not in Europe or Asia but in the jungles of Brazil.

Chicago Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies

OUR GREATEST AMERICAN.

Chicago, April 23.—I used to become very indignant when I read of any one trying to pull Charles Lindbergh from the position of honor he so richly deserves, but I think he is big enough to understand it. He is not the first one in the limelight [in spite of his heroic effort to keep out of it] nor will he be the last one to arouse envy. Time has hushed the voices of Lincoln's enemies and perhaps some day Charles Lindbergh may be looked upon as "Our greatest American." M. M. D.

OLD MEN TO THE TRENCHES.

Athens, Wis., April 22.—Your editorial, "Old Men in War Paint," paints a picture altogether too true for the good of America. Age limit of soldiers should be changed immediately—60 to 85.

LEWIS FRICK.

CAN BRITAIN WIN?

Chicago, April 23.—Can Britain win even with the United States as her arsenal? Upon that point, and that point alone, should rest the extent of our future aid. The rabid New Dealers who are now stirring war hysteria in this country thru the "convoys for Britain" speeches should remember that should Britain suddenly collapse we would find ourselves in the same difficult straits as Britain following the Dunkirk episode, with all our modern mechanized equipment in a captured country or what escaped sinking on the way.

The conclusion must be reached that President Roosevelt should adhere to his 50 per cent "rule of thumb" policy more rigidly. We cannot depend upon Britain to defend us. The United States must be armed and ready for any threat from any aggregate of nations. Our army and navy must be equipped in the manner necessary to fight a war in 1941, and not with the obsolete equipment used in 1918. The conquered nations of Europe serve as mute evidence of that.

VERNE E. MILDE.

WANTS 35 TO 50 IN THE DRAFT.

Chicago, April 22.—Why aren't the older, wiser generation of our manhood, say from 35 to 50, called in the draft to strengthen the standing army? Why take the young men for cannon fodder and weaken the coming generation who must shoulder the burden of paying for the wars their fathers deemed necessary? The older men, and especially those with a voice in Washington, should be all too willing to back up their arguments for convoys and ships for foreign powers and learn to shoulder a gun rather than push the job on high school graduates who have had little or no say about what they think of the situation. We seem to be a democracy in name only. Ask the young men if they want to go to war. Even the level headed members of the regular army have no desire to participate in some one else's war. "23."

LEASE.

Chicago, April 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been using the apartment lease with the 60 day clause, but each year I have made up new leases. I should like to know:

1. Whether a lease with a 60 day clause is legal, providing neither lessee or lessor have terminated same with written notice delivered to either lessee or lessor as of March 1.

2. Is it necessary to make up new lease each year?

3. Does it require legal action to enforce a lease with a 60 day clause after the first year has expired? S. A.

1. Yes.

2. There has been an Illinois holding that the renewal carries with it the 60 day clause, but there is a possibility of dispute on this point. There have been definite holdings that the renewal does not carry the judgment clause. If you have a new lease signed up it will mean that the tenant has squarely faced the fact that he is bound for another year.

3. In general, the forcing of any legal right is handled thru court proceedings. It is not clear whether you have some exception in mind. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

GOV. GREEN ASKS CLEAR THINKING BY REPUBLICANS

Cites Need of Keeping U. S. on Straight Course.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Clear thinking by the Republican party can keep the people of the United States on a straight course, but the party must be certain to give a good account of itself in office, Gov. Green said yesterday.

Gov. Green.

Greeting G. O. P. national committee members from 12 middle west and western states at a luncheon in the Lake Shore club, the governor said Illinois representatives of the party are well aware of this principle and are following it.

"We are on an economy program," Green said. "We want to make Illinois a laboratory—a testing board—to which you on the national committee can point with pride. Straight thinking at this time is essential, when the people are frustrated and some do not know what policies should be followed.

System Working, Says Green.

"All of us here in Illinois feel that responsibility keenly, and we are keeping our government in line with the American tradition. We wouldn't trade our system for any other in the world. We are making it work despite some cumbersome methods."

Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois committeman and chairman of the speaking program at the luncheon, also introduced to the out of state visitors the other state officers elected with Gov. Green last November: Lieut. Gov. Hugh W. Cross, Attorney General George F. Barrett, Auditor Arthur C. Lueder, and Treasurer Warren Wright.

After the luncheon the other committeemen and committeewomen left for their homes, confident their meeting Saturday and yesterday had been a worthwhile exchange of ideas.

Addresses Youth Meeting.

Before driving back to Springfield, the governor stopped at the 184th Field Artillery armory, 35th street and Giles avenue, in the heart of the south side colored district, to give some advice on government to a meeting of young people, held in connection with Chicago Youth Week.

"Our nation has become the mightiest and most glorious on earth," he told his audience. "To keep it so you must never forget those principles of representative government by the people, which are the bloodstream of national life.

"If you should ever feel uncertainty and fear, and need courage and strength, turn to the constitution of the United States for protection of your birthright of freedom. Its ideals are as sacred now as they were when they were written.

"They guarantee that government shall represent the will of the people and they assure every one of you the just fruits of your labor. They are the supreme defender of your rights, liberties, and property. They protect any government which is humane and incorruptible. They are timeless and eternal."

ENGINEERS PROPOSE TO PROHIBIT HAZARDS FROM NEW HIGHWAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 27.—Hot dog stands, beer joints, and haphazard gas station driveways would be barred from the state's future bypass routes under plans being studied by Gov. Dwight Green's engineers to protect the public's investment in these belt lines around smaller cities.

"A preliminary survey," said Walter A. Rosenfield, director of public works, "indicates that without some type of protection the bypass routes in a few years lose the safety and convenience of their original design."

The department's engineers suggest three remedial measures for the governor's consideration. One would restrict access to the new right of way from abutting property. A second plan would modify the conventional design for bypass routes. Center pavements with a medial curb would accommodate express travel. A third suggestion would traverse the cities with safety routes of superhighway character, free of cross traffic and pedestrians and with grade separated interchanges with urban thorofare.

Home Builder Returned to Face Theft Charges

James M. MacKinnon, 35 years old, was returned to Chicago yesterday from St. Louis, Mo., to face charges of embezzlement in connection with a home building program. He is accused of accepting approximately $10,000 in down payments from between 30 to 35 prospective home owners. James J. Cherry, assistant state's attorney, said MacKinnon left Chicago April 2 after his clients had demanded their money back. He was seized in St. Louis several days ago.

HOME RULE CITY'S NO. 1 PROBLEM, HODES REPORTS

Urges Constitution Change or Legislation.

Chicago's "Number One Problem" is its need for home rule, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes says in the 1940 annual report of the city law department. For the first time the department report, which customarily relates the year's work of the department, also makes a recommendation—that steps be taken to procure home rule for Chicago either thru constitutional amendment or thru so-called "interim legislation."

Hodes said the recommendation is in accordance with the city code, which requires that each department head submit to the mayor an annual report and recommendations.

Yesterday Mayor Kelly praised the report and the treatise on the need for home rule.

City a Legal Infant, Says Report.

"Chicago is still a legal infant because of state restrictions which bind Chicago," the report says.

"If for no other reason, cities in Illinois, and particularly Chicago, need home rule in order to develop sound fiscal structures. Our whole taxing system is controled by the state. Chicago is forced to operate financially in accord with a state pattern. What Chicago needs is its own financial system — and that means home rule."

The report criticizes the fact that "under state law assessment and collection of Chicagoans' taxes for local purposes has been given over exclusively to the county, notwithstanding that four-fifths of Cook county's taxable valuation lies within the city itself.

State Control Blamed.

The report blames state control for Chicago's dependency on the personal property tax.

Under the state law the city is not permitted to prohibit the use of toy guns, which are frequently used in robberies altho the city has been given the right to regulate weapons explosive in operation.

Present state laws do not permit the city to license and inspect such commercial activities as bakery vehicles, soft drink manufacturers, drug stores, and plumbing fixtures.

The report shows that altho the city is dependent on the state for its powers, it contains 3,396,808 persons, according to the 1940 census figures, or 43 per cent of the total population of the state.

CHICAGO HOLDUP VICTIMS IDENTIFY SLAYING SUSPECT

Maurice Peter Tennant, a parolee in custody here for questioning about the murder of Miss Lelia Welsh in Kansas City, Mo., was identified at a detective bureau showup yesterday by victims of six Chicago holdups as the man who robbed them. Tennant had previously been identified in four other Chicago robberies. Tennant, who is 31 years old, had admitted that he was in the vicinity of Miss Welsh's home in Kansas City on March 9 when Miss Welsh, 24 years old, was beaten and stabbed to death in her bed. He denies, however, that he is the killer.

He crawled onto a window ledge and was carried to safety by Lieut. Edward Meyer and Fireman Francis O'Donnell of hook and ladder company 9.

BRITAIN PREPARES FOR SECOND HOUR OF DAYLIGHT TIME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 27.—The extra hour which will be added beginning next Sunday to the hours of daylight saving time, which was continued thru last winter, is expected to be a boon to British workers. Among the effects of the new extension will be:

More workers will travel home in daylight. Factory production will be helped by reduced use of artificial lights. Blackout time will be further reduced.

In most parts of England and Wales the blackout will begin 45 minutes after sunset and end 45 minutes before sunrise. In Scotland, North umberland, Durham, and Cumberland because of the longer period of twi light in the north, it will begin one hour after sunset and last until one hour before sunrise.

Before advertising can get results, it must be believed. People do not respond to advertising in which they have no confidence. And when a newspaper prints fakes in its news columns, people do not have much confidence in what appears in its advertising columns.

What the advertiser gets out of a newspaper depends on what the editor puts in. The Chicago Tribune is a productive advertising medium because readers know the Tribune prints the facts.

They know it spares no expense or effort in order to gather and print the news of every significant happening at home and abroad. They know that Tribune reporters are experienced men and women who are not misled by wild rumor, press bureaus and propagandists. They know the Tribune is not under financial or political obligation to anyone.

That's why Tribune circulation every March for 7 consecutive years has shown a gain in total daily circulation over the same month in the preceding year —why Tribune city and suburban daily circulation every March for 7 consecutive years has shown a gain over the same month in the preceding year.

Good Morning!

Jack London's story of the evil captain and dissolute crew who manned a sinister tramp steamer, The Ghost, again makes a screen bow.

This tale, which once served as a vehicle for both Hobart Bosworth and Milton Sills, has been refashioned and, as is, doesn't seem much "dated."

Brutality on the high seas forms the narrative's subject matter which calls for plenty of blood-and-thundery action. . . . Edward G. Robinson as the wicked Wolf Larsen, gives a downright terrifying performance. John Garfield and Alexander Knox are good as two men who dare stand up to him. . . . Ida Lupino, as a bit of feminine flotsam—an escaped convict—who boards The Ghost to escape her pursuers, is a drab and pitiful figure. If you saw "High Sierra" you know how realistically she puts over that sort of thing. . . . Barry Fitzgerald as a nasty, taunty, conscienceless ship's cook is disagreeably credible. Other parts are handled well and atmosphere and settings are properly unpleasant.

This sort of movie gives me the heebie geebies—but "The Sea Wolf" IS well done.

See you tomorrow.

Radio sets, two first prizes, were won by Arthur Dampts of Our Lady of Peace grammar school and Arlene Winer of St. Bartholomew's school.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., April 27.—Sunday—Visited Gregg Toland, the lens magician. We talk shop—enough for a Sunday article, mostly about the technical achievements in "Citizen Kane." Unlike so many Hollywoodians, Toland doesn't have a big projection outfit at home and doesn't show pictures privately. "But," he grins, "I'll show my 16 mm. color stuff on Mexico at the drop of a hat." Just another amateur movie maker at heart! . . . He's working now on "The Little Foxes," and will shoot the next Welles picture when it is ready—barring, of course, the possibility that he and Orson may be called for military service.

Monday—A phone call from Vivian Cosby, playwright, scenarist, magazine and radio writer, saying she's out of the hospital and can walk. So ends two and a half years of grim battle against horrible burns—and a battle to keep on working while bedridden. Miss Cosby says she'd have got out a couple of months sooner—but in the hospital she had a nervous breakdown from overwork! . . . In the evening to catch "Penny Serenade" at Columbia. It's a very human, four handkerchief affair and the studio thinks it's going to be big box office. Cary Grant and Irene Dunne do fine jobs; George Stevens has been painstaking and honest with the production, and the baby washing scene is wonderful.

Tuesday—Hard at the desk all morning, and in the afternoon to Republic to gab with Bill Saal and Norman Hall about the business of making serials. Hollywood turns out 12 chapter films a year, even now, and the trade is highly profitable. There is an interesting reversal in serials. They came, at the very beginning, from France and Italy, and were the chief draws in early theaters. Today they can't be sold abroad. For the foreign market they are edited and pasted together as features. Most serials have to be identified with comic strip or radio characters nowadays, altho some of the perennials such as "The Iron Claw" and "Jungle Girl" can be remade—with new plots, of course. . . . Roy Rogers is going to be starred in a serial about Robin Hood, which should be a natural, for Roy, who draws a 90 pound bow, is one of the finest archers in the country. . . . Dinner at Cameraman James Wong Howe's Chinese restaurant in the valley, and to Warners' to see "The Wagons Roll at Night"—a good, swift, circus melodrama, and, O boy, is that Humphrey Bogart a meanie!

Wednesday—A day at the oars, and in the evening to Universal to see Rene Clair's first Hollywood job, "The Flame of New Orleans," and it is a shocking disappointment. Clair's French films have so long been hailed, particularly by the art loving film critics of New York, as modern masterworks—but this one seems 10 to 20 years behind the times in method. And Marlene Dietrich looks like no more than a beautiful ostrich. Even when she's just wearing frills, the frills look like feathers, and maybe she should see a psychiatrist about her feather complex.

Thursday—News comes of Joe Breen's unexpected resignation as the Hays office "censor," and nobody can think of a good man to replace him. Breen struck me as being perfect for the job. He worked hard at being Hollywood's house dick—hard and intelligently. The rules he enforced were not his own, but those of the movie makers themselves. He took the raps and the laughs without squawking, and he made few enemies.

Friday—Desk work, mostly. Zasu Pitts has been working as a voice in Walt Disney's full length Mickey Mouse, and they like her so well that a caricature of her will be introduced in the film. . . . Judy Canova is going to do a burlesque of Carmen Miranda in "Puddin' Head" and it's a noble idea. . . . Monty Banks, old time comedian, will direct Laurel and Hary's "Forward March."

Saturday—To R. K. O. and I hear that Ginger Rogers is quite seriously ill but working. . . . At night to the annual party of 20th Century-Fox's studio club.

Freda Stone Heart Club Gives Musical Tonight

The Freda Komaiko Stone Heart club will hold its seventh annual spring musical this evening at the Morrison hotel. Dorothy Eliason Segal, soprano; Gertrude Blackstone, pianist, and 13 year old Annette Pritikin, radio actress, will give the program. Miss Hariette Ellason has arranged the evening.

Paulist Choir's Faces Angelic, Singing Better

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Each year at about this time, when spring has really arrived and when sun and buds are at last beginning to perform in a satisfactory manner, the celebrated Paulist choristers emerge from the sanctuary of Old St. Mary's church to present a downtown concert for their friends and admirers.

Yesterday was the day, and big crowds poured into Orchestra hall from sunny Michigan avenue. These crowds exclaimed again, as they always do, about how bright and angelic the choir boys looked, but once the singing had begun they had much more important matters to occupy their attention.

For Father Eugene F. O'Malley, for 13 years director of the Paulist choristers, has trained his 60 boys and 40 men and young men to a point where the sheer sound of the choir—to say nothing of its precision and its musicianship—is one of the artistic wonders of this city.

The tone of the massed boys' voices is as pure as the open diapason of an organ, and it possesses the same unearthly quality. It was heard to especially good advantage in sacred music of Russia and the west, and it was effective, too, in the program's various secular songs. Speaking of sacred music, a "Mihi Autem," by Hermann Hans Wetzler, received its first performance yesterday. It had been written for and dedicated to Father O'Malley and the Paulist choristers.

Soloists yesterday were Walter Curran, John Lynch, George Lane, Carl Honzak, and William Brown. Robert Sheehan played piano accompaniments.

The proceeds from these annual concerts go to the maintenance of the choir's summer school at Rhinelander, Wis.

An Armenian soprano, Marie Gabriel Arakian, was heard in Thorne hall yesterday in a concert sponsored by the Armenian Relief corps and affiliated organizations. She sang both Armenian and standard European music. Her style was vigorous and authoritative, her voice ample. She had two talented young artists assisting her—Virginia Gertmenian Nahigian, harpist, and Claire Vander Griend, pianist.

The Fine Art opera, Zerline Muhlman Metzger, director, presented in Kimball hall yesterday afternoon and evening a novelty in the form of Gluck's antique opera, "Orpheus and Eurydice." It was done in English, and was complete with costumes, settings, and even a ballet. It offered us an opportunity to increase our knowledge of an 18th century masterwork which the resident Chicago opera companies have never performed.

Chicago Ballet Debut Attracts Large Audience

Program of three ballets by the Chicago ballet. Presented in the Goodman theater, Sunday afternoon, April 27, 1941, under the auspices of the Chicago Dance council. The program:

"Classical Impressions"; choreography by Mary Vandas; music by Tschaikowsky.

"These Are My People"; choreography by Ruth Hatfield, Marjorie Parkin, and Nik Krevitsky; poetry by Langston Hughes; music by Walter Ihrke and Richard Martin.

"That Daring Young Man"; choreography by Walter Camryn; music compiled from popular tunes of the 1890s.

BY CECIL SMITH.

The Chicago Dance council must be feeling very happy, for yesterday afternoon's Goodman theater program was virtually a sellout, at a time when the celebrated Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo had to cancel its projected engagement in Chicago for lack of an encouraging advance ticket sale. It is a healthy sign that Chicagoans are finally beginning to develop interest in local dancing and a sense of responsibility for its support. And it is equally healthy that a large group of Chicago dancers, of diverse kinds of background and training, were able to coöperate amicably in the presentation of an ambitious program.

Naturally enough, there were things wrong—some of them serious—in the maiden effort of the Chicago ballet. But despite inequalities of technique among the performers, and despite a disturbing want of fresh imagination in the choreography of the first two ballets, the venture was undertaken and achieved in terms of unfailingly good taste and high artistic intention. The audience knew that the performance was well meant even when it was not well conceived or executed, and the response was warm and cordial.

By far the most effective and successful ballet of the three was Walter Camryn's "That Daring Young Man," a consistently amusing period piece of circus life in the '90s, with Mr. Camryn, the daring trapeze expert, winning the affections of Albia Kavan away from Sean Marino, "the forlorn lover." The ballet was costumed with great gusto, and provided grateful opportunities for Jane Burkhalter as a Little Egypt somewhat in the Charlotte Greenwood tradition, for Eloise Moore's and Belden Starr's comic gifts as a strong lady and a strong man, for Barbara Steele's attractive toe dancing as a tight rope walker, and above all for dancing of important professional caliber and genuine brilliance by Mr. Camryn, the beautiful Miss Kavan, and Mr. Marino, a gifted pantomimist.

The directness and the spirited Americanism of "That Daring Young Man" came as something of a relief after the studied Martha Grahamism of Ruth Hatfield's composition, "These Are My People." This is one more of those self-conscious programmatic compositions in which the dancing has so little to do with the literary subject matter as to be basically unintelligible. There was, however, an excellent expressive duet by Nik Krevitsky and Marjorie Parkin.

Mary Vandas' "Classical Impressions" was a good try, if a rather stereotyped one, but it must be admitted that the group of dancers was not equal to the taxing demands of the classical style of ballet.

Peace at Any Price.

Portrait heads of Gertrude Lawrence by Maude Phelps Hutchins, one in sculpture, one in paint, will be reproduced in the forthcoming issue of Town and Country magazine, but the amount of space to be devoted to the Hutchins portraiture is considerably less than originally planned. The story behind the cutting down of space:

Two weeks ago Mrs. Hutchins wrote a final letter to Harry Bull, editor of Town and Country, giving him a description of the patina of the Lawrence bronze and some other information he wanted for the article that was to accompany the reproductions. She also told him she was sending him a copy of her husband's latest speech, The Proposition Is Peace.

"I think you ought to print it in full," she wrote, "because printed in Town and Country it will reach a lot of the right people who are wrong."

She had an immediate reply from Editor Bull. He was printing her husband's peace speech in full in the next issue, but because it had come in so late, and took so much space, he was having to cut down the amount of space featuring her work. It wouldn't be the double page feature originally planned, he wrote. He hoped she wouldn't mind.

"I call that peace at any price," Mrs. Hutchins quipped in reply to Mr. Bull.

Chicagoans to Join Kentucky Garden Tour Starting May 15

BY JUDITH CASS.

NOT all who go to "Old Kaintuck" next month will be going to see the Derby run on May 3, for those who like old houses and gardens will be going for the fourth annual Kentucky Garden club tour, to be held on May 15, 16, 17, and 18. This year's tour will include Bardstown, Frankfort, Harrodsburg, Lexington, Millersburg, and Louisville.

The trees, flowers, and shrubs should be at the height of their springtime beauty then. The tourists will see plenty of horses, tho, for two famous stock farms will be open to the visitors. They are Faraway farm, the home of Man o' War, Samuel D. Riddle's champion, and Elmendorf, Joseph Widener's place, where many race horses are born and bred.

Indian Hill, the home of Zachary Taylor, 12th President of the United States, in the St. Matthew district; Oxmoor, the William Marshall Bullitt's magnificent estate which has been in the same family since 1786; Mrs. Alvin T. Hert's beautiful Hurstbourne, a 1,200 acre farm, and the Old Kentucky Home, which was built in 1795 and where Stephen Collins Foster wrote his immortal song, are a few of the 51 places that will be open during the tour. Most of them are privately owned and never shown publicly except during these annual tours arranged by the Garden club. The proceeds of the tour will be used to restore the old garden at Liberty hall in Frankfort, which was built in 1796 by John Brown, Kentucky's first United States senator.

Virginia Week a Benefit for British War Relief.

Virginia's Garden week this year is for the benefit of the British War Relief fund. The tour opens today and continues thru May 3. The John P. Hookers of Winnetka always open their beautiful old home in King George county, about 55 miles south of Washington, during the Virginia Garden week.

The British War Relief society is to receive the proceeds from a walk thru some north shore gardens on May 30 and 31. The gardens to be opened are those of the Max Epsteins and Mrs. Robert Cluett in Winnetka; of Mrs. James Simpson in Glencoe, and of the Clarence C. Prentices, the Alfred E. Hamills, the Vaughan C. Spaldings, the William McCormick Blairs, the Lester Armours, the Philip D. Armours, the Walter S. Brewsters, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Bevan, and the Bertram J. Cahns, all in Lake Forest.

Tour tickets good for either day may be obtained in advance for $2.50 from 30 North Michigan avenue, the British War Relief office, or from Mrs. John Andrews King in Lake Forest. The same tickets may be obtained at any of the homes on the day of the sale at $3.50 each. Admission to a single estate will be $1.

Not all of the houses will be open to the public, tho more than half of them will be. The Blair estate will be open on the 30th only, and the Hamill home on the 31st only.

Caroline Grim is Bride of Charles E. Saunders.

Interesting news is the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Mario Saint-Cyr of Riverside of the marriage of their daughter, Caroline Goddard Grim, to Charles E. Saunders. The ceremony took place in the presence of the families on April 19 at the home of the bride. Mr. Saunders and his bride left immediately on a short wedding trip. They will be at home soon at 108 Lincoln avenue, Riverside.

The luncheon will give members their first opportunity to see their new rooms. A housewarming is planned for later.

A little luncheon party for the members of her family will mark Mrs. Daniel J. Schuyler's 96th birthday anniversary today. Mrs. Schuyler Jr. is giving the luncheon in her Lake Shore drive apartment.

Headmaster to be Guest og Lawrenceville Alumni.

Rawleigh Warner, a trustee of the Lawrenceville school, will preside at a luncheon Lawrenceville alumni are giving today at the Chicago club for Dr. Allan Heely, headmaster. He and Mrs. Heely arrive in Chicago today and will spend three days at the Drake. There will be a tea for Mrs. Heely this afternoon at the Woman's Athletic club, and several dinner and luncheon parties for them given by alumni and friends of the school.

Hard Case

By Luke Short

SYNOPSIS.

A letter whose address shows that Dave Coyle, notorious outlaw, is expected in Yellow Jacket turns the town into an armed force headed by Sheriff Beal. Dave diverts their attention by leaving cartridges warming to the explosion point in the blacksmith's forge while he walks into the postoffice and gets his letter from Carol McFee. While the hotel clerk has gone to the scene of explosion, Dave goes to a room in the hotel. He finds that Carol has mixed letters and he gets one intended for Will Usher in which Carol tells Will she is warning Dave against him. Carol, worried about the mixed letters, follows Dave to the hotel and tells him she needs his help in driving Wallace and his outfit off their ranch. Wallace has forged a deed and bill of sale, claiming Carol's dad sold him the ranch. McFee is suing Wallace, but Wallace is bringing Sholto to the trial to testify as witness to the sale. Dave agrees to help and Will Usher begs a truce and proposes that he and Dave kidnap Sholto, making Wallace pay a high ransom. Dave agrees, thinking it will help McFee's suit to get Sholto out of the way. Well guarded, Sholto is put in the baggage car to be carried to Santa Fe for the trial. Thinking they are at last safe, the sheriff and men engage in a poker game just as Dave appears in the baggage car, at the point of a gun demands Sholto, and escapes with him. Dave carries out the kidnaping only to have Usher double cross him and try to kill him. But using Sholto as a shield he escapes. In the meantime Beal finds the envelope Carol addressed to Dave in Dave's hotel room, and by getting Carol and McFee to write their names finds the writing to be Carol's.

INSTALMENT XIII.

JAILED.

Carol looked at the envelope and her heart sank. She couldn't lie, not with their box number on the back of the envelope and a sample of her writing in Ernie See's hands. She said weakly, "Yes."

"So you wrote him, did you?" Beal said. He wheeled to face McFee. "Where do you get your mail in Wagon Mound?"

"Why—box 73, the postoffice."

"Ah," Beal said. He held the envelope in both hands for the puzzled McFee to look at. "So you didn't arrange to meet Dave Coyle here and plan the kidnaping? There's the evidence, in your own daughter's handwriting. She's admitted it! What do you say to that?"

McFee looked bleakly at Carol, and Carol ran into his arms. "O, Dad. I wrote him! I'm sorry! I—I hoped you wouldn't find out!"

McFee put his arms around her and stroked her hair while she sobbed on his chest.

"What have you got to say, McFee?" Beal drawled. On his rosy innocent face was the look of a schoolboy who has just found a quarter.

"Nothing," McFee said calmly. He looked bewildered, crushed.

"Then I'll have to jail you," Beal said calmly. "And if Judge Warburton gives you bond on this evidence, you can bet it will be so high that you can't meet it. Because, Mr. McFee," Sheriff Beal said angrily, "I think Sholto has been murdered by your outlaw friend and you paid him to do it."

Carol and Maitland stayed with McFee until 9 o'clock, and all the while the town buzzed with excitement. Judge Warburton, who could set McFee's bail, if he was to get bail, was out of town for two days, but already a messenger had been sent to bring him back. That was Senator Maitland's work, and he had argued half the evening with Sheriff Beal to effect it.

Carol sat in her father's cell listening to the life of the town. Bruce McFee was still stunned by the news. He had refused to eat, or even talk, and now Carol was worried. A week of jail would kill him, she knew, crush his spirit, take all the fight out of him and whip him for good. But what was even worse, her father was gentle with her. Instead of raving and storming around in his anger, he was quiet and subdued. Ever since childhood she had been sure of one thing: her father's anger with her worked in inverse proportion to her crime. Let her dirty her dress, and her father roared and threatened until finally they both laughed. But let her lie to him, even a small lie, and he was quiet, like he was now.

She sat beside him on the cot in his cell, and she could hear Senator Maitland's patient voice arguing with Sheriff Beal in the office up front. The Yellow Jacket jail was a spacious six cell affair, brand new and built of stone. In the narrow sheriff's office was a door to the right of the desk. This opened onto a dark corridor, off which opened Ernie See's tiny sleeping quarters. The door at the other end of the corridor opened onto the cell block, and both these corridors were ajar now, so that Maitland's voice, continually harried by Tate Wallace's and Sheriff Beal's, came dimly to them.

Carol looked at her father to see if he were listening, and he was not. He had his elbows on his knees and was staring at the floor. Carol wanted to humble herself, to beg his forgiveness, to do anything that would change that look of misery on his face.

"Dad," she said suddenly, "Why can't I be arrested? You didn't write the letter, didn't even know I'd written it! I can make them believe it!"

"Don't talk nonsense," McFee said wearily. "They'll believe what they want to believe."

Then Carol said humbly, "Dad, I didn't know it would do this."

"Of course you didn't," McFee said in a patient voice. "You just didn't think."

"But—I was desperate," Carol said bitterly. "I would have asked anybody for help!"

McFee turned his head to look at her, pain in his eyes. "But why, Carol, why did you choose Dave Coyle to ask for help? That's what I can't understand."

"He—" Carol paused. "He isn't as bad as you think."

McFee laughed bitterly. "My dear, every sheriff in every county in this territory knows Dave Coyle. So does the United States commissioner. So does the governor. Are you putting your judgment of men up against theirs? Carol, you're a pretty girl. Even the dogs like pretty girls. Coyle was nice to you because you were pretty. But cross him, and he'd cut your throat." He clenched his fists and looked at the floor. "That's why I helped with that reward for him. I don't want a dog like that even speaking to you!"

"Hah!" McFee said shortly. His neck was getting red. "This is the way he helped me. I'm accused of hiring him, when I never saw him and would shoot him on sight if I did." He shook his head. "No, that little killer saw a chance to make some ransom money. He didn't want to help you, and he didn't want to help me. He wanted to help himself."

Carol didn't speak for a moment. Maybe her father was right. But there was something else. She said quietly: "Has any one told you what he said to Wallace in the baggage car?"

"Yes," McFee said indifferently.

"Dad, how much land does the Three Rivers outfit own?"

"O, 50,000 acres or so. I don't know," McFee said impatiently.

"And how many cattle?"

"Ten thousand or so. Their range is overstocked. Why?"

"Dave Coyle knew Wallace. It couldn't have been more than three years ago that Dave met Tate Wallace, or Wallace Tate, in Dodge City." She looked at her father. "Isn't it strange that a crooked tin horn gambler who couldn't even pay his debts three years ago is running an outfit like the Three Rivers?"

"Maybe he doesn't own it."

"Who does? Has he ever said?"

McFee shook his head, and looked at Carol, a flicker of interest in his eyes. "It's nobody's business but his."

"It might be ours."

McFee looked at his daughter. There was an urgency in her deep brown eyes that McFee didn't miss, but he was puzzled. "How?"

"Three years ago, Wallace was a tin horn, gambling under a fake name. Today, and for two years, he's been the manager of a big cattle company."

"What's that got to do with us?"

"He's not a cowman. He didn't earn his job! He was put here to fight and steal from us. Who put him here?"

"Why, any damn money-hungry crook could have!"

"But it was a money-hungry crook who knew your hand was hurt, and that your signature was changed! It was a money-hungry crook who knew Sam could be bribed! It was a money-hungry crook who knew all about us, Dad!"

McFee said bluntly, "Nonsense! I——"

He was interrupted by the entrance of Sheriff Beal and Senator Maitland. Maitland looked tired as he stood aside and let Beal open the cell door.

"They've sent for Warburton, Bruce," Maitland said, and he added to Carol, "You'll have to go now, Carol."

Carol kissed her father good night, and went out with Maitland. On the way back to the hotel she said, "Senator, what chance has Dad to get out of this?"

Maitland shook his head. "They can keep him locked up a long time on suspicion of complicity in murder, Carol," Maitland said. "It's bad."

"And I'm to blame," Carol said bitterly.

"The young do foolish things," Maitland said quietly, smiling gently. "Your foolish thing just happened to take a serious turn, my dear."

Carol didn't say anything, only nodded glumly.

"You must promise you won't get in touch with Dave Coyle again," Maitland said gravely. "Once more, and they'll probably try to hang your father."

"I've learned my lesson," Carol said bitterly.

Gay Tea Opens Exhibition at the Arts Club

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The tea to open the annual professional members' exhibition of the Arts club always is one of the largest and gayest parties of the year at the smart little club in the Wrigley building. The usual 400 or more guests crowded into the galleries yesterday afternoon between 4:30 and 7:30 o'clock, mostly friends of the 77 artists represented. Other members were invited, of course, but they were not permitted to bring guests on this occasion.

Setting a high note in sartorial elegance for the men present were the painter, Oskar Gross, and the subject of his portrait in one of the galleries, Rudolph Reuter, the pianist. Mr. Gross was wearing a long tailed cutaway, a high stiff collar, black bow tie, stiff bosomed shirt, and striped trousers. Mr. Reuter wore a dressy short black coat with striped trousers. They held a little court before the portrait.

In a nearby gallery Mrs. Robert Griffin, who paints as Nina K. Griffin, was receiving compliments both on her painting of a boy on a merry-go-round and on the handsome and beautiful tea table she had arranged. She filled a three tiered brass epergne with ranunculi, snapdragons, cinerarias, and other flowers in pink, bright red, lavender, and purple tones, and put lavender candles in the brass candelabra. In anticipation of a real crush, the table was set in the upstairs hallway, between the main dining rooms and the cocktail lounge, where all available space was filled with small tables.

"We want to see Maude Hutchins' exhibit" was heard from many who hurried right to the circular sculpture gallery. The wife of President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago was showing an "Early Hutchins." Among the first to arrive in the gallery were the Frederic C. Woodwards and their son-in-law and daughter, the Emerson S. Woelffers; Mrs. Walter G. Smith and her mother, Mrs. Kenneth S. McLennan; Miss Alice Roullier, and Miss Elaine Blackman.

Charles P. Killgore, who with Laura Van Pappelendam and Nathaniel Owings composed the hanging committee; Frances Badger, Ruth Briede, Agnes Cook Gale, Marie Blanke, Anita Venier Alexander, and Lucy Hartrath were some of the artists who arrived early to greet their friends.

Jumper Dress, New Version

MISS' JUMPER DRESS.

The jumper dress proved its practicality all winter, and now designers are reviving this most wearable style for the summer. Fashioned of printed ginghams or other cottons, it's a versatile design for a busy outdoor season. Today's version isn't too girlish, but it's certainly desirably youthful.

Style No. 2940 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the spring Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Summer Hats of Straw Take Popular Fancy

BY REA SEEGER.

Amazing things have been worked with straw for the newest summer millinery!

Big hats and small hats are of straw, from the clever small affairs made of lattice pattern worked rafia in that flattering warm beige tone to the intricately woven oyster white baku so lacy and smooth it appears like fine linen. Summer cartwheels of straw are accented with a narrow band of sooty black velvet along the upturned edge. Another less lacy hat is in dull white with a delicate downturned edge of shining black jet beads, an edge that looks like a decorative banding of black tatting.

One sensational cartwheel is of toast tan straw as lacy in pattern as a piece of battenberg, complete to the great shallow scallops of the straw bending over the edge. Black straw combined with a fagoting makes a great shadowy cartwheel, especially devastating on a blonde or coppertop. The brim is carefully scooped then sharply turned up at the back with an oval medallion effect smack dab in the back of the head . . . simple and tremendously effective.

All those roguish sailors of the gay nineties have come back. . . . They are pert, flirtatious models and when made of giddy plaid surah or tie silk they're heartbreakers for any one's consideration.

Brand new are the sheer extensions to otherwise exceedingly small hats, the sailors for instance. Veiling or fine meshed net extends straight out from the extreme edge of the silk or straw brim. A rigid wire, almost invisible, achieves this trick. It's the coolest brim imaginable, for it shimmers gently with every move of the head.

All these early summer hats are in the first showing of a famous designer, and there isn't a hat in the collection that will not flatter any headline or personality.

April 28, 1941.

Universal day—Take care of the details of those plans you made yesterday.

May—For those in a six year this coming month can prove to be highly inspirational only if you seek to rise above the irksome duties which require attention. Otherwise it can be a highly jittery, nervous month. You may have some unexpected publicity at this time if you are doing work which needs to be brought to the attention of the public, but it isn't a good time to force yourself or your work on others. Let the spotlight be turned on you if it happens naturally. Don't seek it. If you are doing any work which requires imagination it should be a good time to be quiet and let ideas come. Partnerships will require careful handling, but can be a source of inspiration if you go more than halfway in making the relationship harmonious. Don't let the problems that come up make you worrisome and fretful. Be willing to render services that will make things run smoothest for others—and yourself.

Styles in Pot Holders

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Fan shaped pot holders should have a legion of users and admirers among the men who putter around a kitchen. Narrow at the top and fan shaped at the bottom, these holders can be used to grasp any type of pot or pan without fear of burning. The round pot holder, worked in a shell stitch is preferred by the feminine members of the cooking department. Both types are easy to create, and they are worked in two colors to match the kitchen color scheme.

For instructions in crocheting the fan shaped and round pot holders, No. 931, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Urge U. of I. to Drop All Queen Contests but One

Urbana, Ill., April 27 [Special].—If the recommendation of the dance supervision committee at the University of Illinois is adopted there will be only one queen contest annually. The committee recommended that the junior prom be the only major university dance sponsoring a queen contest. This would eliminate queen contests for freshman and sophomore class dances.

Long, crispy bread sticks which give the teeth a bit of work are good with soups and salads, and may be made at home. They may be made from any favorite plain yeast bread or roll dough. The secret is to roll the dough pencil-thin.

The rolled out pencils of dough may be brushed with slightly beaten egg white or yolk, and sprinkled with coarse salt, poppy seed, or caraway seed. It's fun to make some sticks plain, others with the variations.

BREAD STICKS.

1 cup scalded milk
¼ cup shortening
1½ tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cake yeast
About 3¾ cups flour

Add shortening, sugar and salt to milk, and cool to lukewarm. Soften yeast in a little of the liquid. Add flour and remaining liquid and knead dough until smooth and elastic. Let rise in a greased bowl until double in bulk. Punch down, let dough stand, covered, for 10 minutes. Then take portions of dough and roll with the palm of the hand on a lightly floured board, until the dough is a long strip the thickness of a pencil. Cut strip in six lengths. Arrange strips on greased baking sheet, allowing an inch between each two. Brush over with an egg white diluted with a tablespoon of water, and beaten to a froth. Sprinkle some of the sticks with coarse salt, others with poppy seed or caraway. Let rise again until light. Bake at 400 degrees until brown and crisp.

Whole wheat or rye flour may be substituted for half of the white flour in the recipe.

"Bread sticks" may be made quickly from stale bread, too, and they're also good with soups and salads. Cut stale bread slices into strips after buttering them on both sides. Trim crusts and brown in a 375-400 degree over. Serve them hot.

The buttered strips may be rolled in grated cheese before toasting, in which case they make something really special in the way of a soup or salad accompaniment.

When you are defending against a suit contract and dummy appears with a few trumps and a singleton in a side suit, the chances are about ten to one that you should lead trumps, even at the possible sacrifice of a trump trick. The clearly impending cross-ruff must be broken up at all costs! Note today's hand.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	2 hearts	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

South put in his overcall with distinct trepidation. He realized that, despite his good heart suit, he was laying himself open to a double and, when it came promptly from West, he felt far from happy. He toyed with the idea of running to three clubs, but rightly decided that this might be jumping from the frying pan into the fire. East, incidentally, also disliked the double, but didn't quite know what to do about it, hence passed.

West opened the diamond king. [He felt that with five trumps he shouldn't try for ruffs, hence ignored his singleton in partner's bid suit.] A view of dummy with the singleton club looming large should have dictated an immediate switch to trumps, but apparently West could not bear to lead from his jack. Instead, he continued with the ace and a low diamond. Declarer ruffed with the deuce and led the spade 10 to dummy's ace. The singleton club was returned. East hopped up with the king and exited with a low spade.

At this point most players would conserve their trumps and discard a losing club, but this declarer did not fall into that error. He went right up with the trump ace. West hastily got rid of a club. A club now was ruffed with dummy's low heart and another spade was ruffed with declarer's king. West discarding his remaining diamond.

Now the hand had reached the peculiar position at which West still had his original five trumps while declarer and dummy were down to two each. But West had conserved his trumps more wisely than well. Another club was led toward dummy and West made a belated effort to stop the cross-ruff by hopping up with the jack and returning a trump. Declarer, however, already had insured his contract. He ruffed the spade with his queen of hearts, and ruffed a club with dummy's ten spot. West impotently having to underruff on both of these tricks. The last trick was conceded graciously to West's trump.

If West had sized up the situation properly at the start and had led a trump at every opportunity, the doubled contract would have been defeated.

An Inventor... An Agent A Successful Business

In a recent editorial in Forbes Magazine, Mr. Forbes points out that life insurance is a "great provider of jobs—greater than the mightiest of our industrial corporations."

He illustrates by citing the huge sums life insurance invests in industry, and by telling how life insurance protection often helps a business to keep going which might otherwise be forced to liquidate at the death of a key personality.

Here is another way in which life insurance proyides jobs—a case where it helped to start a business that is particularly valuable at the moment.

Because the man involved prefers to remain anonymous, I am changing both his name and two minor details—Mr. Brown is the inventor of a machine tool used in perfecting interchangeable parts for intricate machines. Some years ago, while working for a big manufacturer, he decided to go into business for himself. His employer urged him to do so and promised him substantial orders. If he could raise $65,000 to build and equip a plant, he could be fairly sure of success.

He knew, of course, that it was strictly a businessman's venture—only for those who understood the risks and could invest their own money. Yet even with such men, his efforts to raise money struck a snag. Due to the highly specialized nature of his product, he himself was essential to the business. If he died, the business might well die, too.

At this point, a life insurance agent came forward and suggested that he insure his life for $65,000 on behalf of his stockholders. This he did . . . and the result is a successful business, small, but so important that it is now working three shifts a day, seven days a week, to help eliminate a "bottleneck" in our national defense.

ANN CHRISTOFFEL LINK TO REDS IS TOLD CONGRESS

Wisconsin Evidence Sent to Capital.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., April 27.—Testimony to the effect that Mrs. Harold Christoffel, wife of the president of the Allis-Chalmers unit of the United Automobile Workers [CIO], was a member of the communist party has been forwarded by the Wisconsin legislative committee investigating subversive activities to Representative Robert F. Jones [R., Ohio]. Mrs. Christoffel is a $1,400 a year clerk of the United States forestry service here under her malden name, Ann Sabljak.

State Senator Bernhard Gettelman, chairman of the legislative committee, ordered the testimony sent to Washington at the request of the Ohio congressman. "We felt the testimony proved beyond all doubt that Mrs. Harold Christoffel is a member of the communist party," Senator Gettelman wrote Jones. "She is the only member of what I consider a subversive group who is presently employed here by the federal government. Her case has been forwarded by the local office of the forestry service to the secretary of agriculture."

Testimony by Ex-Communist.

Kenneth Goff, a pastor, of Delavan, Walworth county, a former communist, testified April 9 that Mrs. Christoffel belonged to the party. Her party name, he said, was Ann Stewart. He said she assisted in preparation of communist publications. At the federal forestry office yesterday, it was said that Mrs. Christoffel was still an employé.

The transcript of the Wisconsin testimony sent to Jones contains the testimony given by John Barr Taylor, personnel director of the forestry service. "Our first complaint that Miss Sabljak was engaged in any subversive activity came in a memorandum from the acting director of the personnel department of the department of agriculture," Taylor testified. It said a letter had been received from the federal bureau of investigation in Milwaukee that Mrs. Christoffel, nee Ann Sabljak, was a member of the communist party in which organization she was known as Ann Stewart.

Admits She's Ann Stewart.

Miss Sabljak denied membership in the communist party or that she had used the name of Ann Stewart.

"She said she had never heard the name of Ann Stewart," Taylor asserted. Later, however, he said, when she was confronted with the accusation that she used the name as a member of the First Methodist church here, she admitted it was true.

Plan Ballot Fraud Quiz.

Detroit, Mich., April 27 (AP).—The United Automobile Workers [CIO] international executive board today designated two of its members to investigate charges of fraud in a strike vote taken Jan. 21 at the Milwaukee plant of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company.

The board members, Richard T. Leonard of Detroit and Richard E. Reisinger of Cleveland, also will act as observers in the forthcoming election of local union officers at the plant.

Forty per cent of the ballots cast in the strike vote were declared by the Wiscsonsin employment relations board to have been fraudulent. Handwriting experts testified the ballot box had been "stuffed." The strike was settled April 6.

SCIENCE MUSEUM OPENS EXHIBIT ON GLASS MAKING

An exhibit depicting the history of the manufacture of glass was opened yesterday at the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park. The exhibit, presented to the museum by four large glass manufacturers, shows historic scenes in the development of the industry. Large glass chemical retorts, blown around picturizations of great advances in glass manufacture, occupy a large table in the center of the room. Other historic scenes are exhibited in glass cases around the walls. Wooden figures show the entire history of its development from raw sand, soda, and lime to the finished product.

HIT BY A TRUCK, MOTORIST DIES OF HIS INJURIES

Charles Powers, 24 years old, struck by an automobile as he was pouring gasoline into the tank of his car at Garfield boulevard and Oakley avenue on Tuesday, died yesterday in the county hospital. Powers, a truck driver, lived at 4432 South Homan avenue. The driver of the car that struck him is Kennon McGehee, 21, of 3151 60th street.

Mrs. Theresa Beigl, 56 years old, of 3719 North Albany avenue, died early today in St. Mary's hospital of injuries suffered Wednesday in an automobile accident at Ashland and Webster avenues. She was a passenger in a car driven by her son, John, 31, when it struck a truck driven by Isadore Gerber, 44, of 2407 Division street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 267 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 203 died in Chicago, where 6,841 were injured in the same period.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 27.—Porter's Cap ran a mile and a quarter this afternoon in the kind of time that wins Derbies. Making his first important training move since his arrival at Churchill Downs from Havre de Grace, Charles S. Howard's sturdily built colt worked the Derby distance in 2:04 4-5. Leon Haas, who will ride him in the 67th running of the race Saturday, was astride him as he went at his task this afternoon over a track that was well dried out by several days of sunshine.

The winner of the Chesapeake stakes, the Santa Anita Derby and last season's Washington Park Futurity thereby flung a doughty challenge at Royce G. Martin's Our Boots, current Kentucky Derby favorite, by virtue of his six length victory over Calumet farm's Whirlaway in the Blue Grass stakes last week.

Status May Shift Tomorrow.

The status of these two contenders may shift again Tuesday if Our Boots goes to the post in the Derby Trial stakes. By a smashing performance in this event, he would retain his No. 1 ranking in the pre-Derby speculation but if he should fail, then Porter's Cap would replace him in public estimation.

With Porter's Cap, Our Boots, Whirlaway, Little Beans, Blue Pair, Agricole, and Valdina Paul on the grounds, Track Superintendent Tom Young is awaiting the arrival of several more contenders from the east to complete the field of probable starters.

Louis Tufano's Market Wise, the surprise winner of the Wood Memorial, is due on Tuesday. So is the King Ranch's Dispose, winner of the Flamingo stakes and the Bahamas handicap during the Hialeah season. J. F. Byers' Robert Morris, conqueror of a field of older horses in the Excelsior handicap, also is expected on Tuesday. Cleaveland Putnam's Swain, last year's Arlington Futurity winner, which earned himself a starting place in the Derby by a good performance in a recent test race at Havre de Grace, is scheduled to come in tomorrow.

Two Pass Up Derby.

Word was received here that Ogden Phipps' King Cole and Coldstream stable's Curious Coin, which were beaten by Market Wise in yesterday's Wood Memorial, will not be shipped out for the Derby. According to Maryland Jockey club officials the pair will run in the Preakness stake at Pimlico a week from Saturday. King Cole also was reported to have suffered a filled leg, but Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons hopes to get him in condition for the $50,000 Pimlico race.

A mystery Derby candidate arrived today from Sportsman's Park in Chicago. This is a horse named Sporting, which is owned by J. H. Dunn of Chicago. He is scheduled to run in the Derby Trial stakes on Tuesday.

Trainer Tom Smith brought Porter's Cap to the paddock shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon. Haas, who had arrived from the east last night, mounted and cantered the colt around to the quarter pole at the head of the stretch, which is the starting point of the Derby. Porter's Cap took a running start and was in full stride as Smith put the stop watch on him.

Does Quarter in :23 2/5.

The colt came up running easily on his first trip past the stands and was caught in :23 2/5 for the quarter. He was at the half in :47 2/5, the three-quarters in 1:12 4/5 and the mile in 1:38 2/5. Without undue urging, he came on thru the home stretch. He was at the eighth pole in 1:51 3/5, and crossed the finish in 2:04 4/5.

Staretor worked the Derby distance this morning in 2:08, his fractional times being :23 3/5, :47 4/5, 1:15 2/5, 1:41, 1:54 2/5 and 2:08.

Little Beans had a workout of three-eighths in :35 1/5 in preparation for going the Derby distance tomorrow.

THE night before the first Cub squad cuts were made Pitcher Vern Olsen weighed himself on a scale that shoots out a little card with the poundage and a fortune telling gem. . . . Ten Years Ago Today—A home run by Bill Cissell gave the White Sox a 6 to 5 victory over Detroit. . . . France's amateur boxing champions sailed for the United States to meet Chicago's Golden Glove champions. . . . The St. Louis Cardinals lost to Pittsburgh and the idle Cubs moved into a tie for first place.

DIETRICH STARTS AND ENDS BADLY, BUT LASTS TO WIN

Browns Make Four Hits, 2 Runs in Ninth.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 27.—Julius Solters came back to life as a hitter today and his services proved invaluable to the White Sox. The big cleanup man, who hadn't been clearing up, burst forth with four hits, all of which figured in the run production by which the Sox defeated the Browns, 7 to 6, despite a hurricane of hits showered on Bill Dietrich in the ninth. A double play with the bases loaded and two runs already home was all that kept bespectacled Bill from his first trimming of the year.

Sox Hit Often.

Altho runs proved hard to get, the Sox didn't have much trouble lathering the offerings of Elden Auker, the underhanded tosser. Auker enjoyed one flawless inning in the eight he hurled. In the seven others there were 13 hits for five runs, two of which were driven across by Solters and three by the unstoppable Dario Lodigiani. But this wouldn't have been enough if Johnny Allen hadn't stepped in in the ninth to help the Sox to two bargain tallies.

Dietrich's quest for three victories in as many starts this season appeared to be doomed in the first inning. Three Brownies scored as the result of wildness coupled with base hits. Dietrich had another busy session in the third, one run scoring, but then went along easily for five innings, only to tumble into a mess in the ninth. Four singles rattled off enemy bats, Bill Knickerbocker erred on a tough chance to further complicate matters, and Dietrich was staggering noticeably when Luke Appling captured a hard bounder to apply the finishing touch.

Dietrich Has Trouble.

Dietrich had three on before anybody was retired in the first inning, so the ensuing three runs didn't come as a shock. The full house resulted from a single by Harlond Clift and passes to Rip Radcliff and Chet Laabs. Clift scampered home on Walt Judnich's tap to Joe Kuhel. George McQuinn was purposely passed, but Johnny Berardino ruined this maneuver by singling over third,

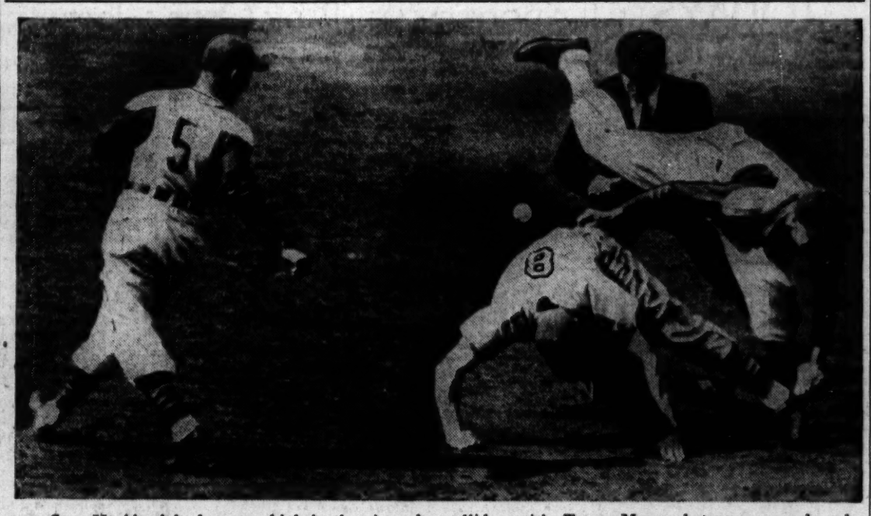
Distress for Our Cubs—Joy for Indians



Stan Hack's right leg goes high in the air as he collides with Terry Moore between second and third after the Cardinals' outfielder was trapped in yesterday's game with the Cubs in Wrigley field. Billy Myers (left), was backing up Hack on the play and Umpire Jocko Conlan was right on the scene. Hack drew an error and before the Cubs could get the side out the Cards scored four runs in the third inning. They won, 8 to 5. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Indians Take 1st Place; Beat Tigers, 2 to 1

Cleveland, O., April 27 (AP).—The Indians swung into first place in the American league today as Bob Feller and Jeff Heath's seventh inning homer tamed the Detroit Tigers, 2 to 1, before 31,728 fans.

Schoolboy Rowe battled to keep Cleveland from the top position, and nearly succeeded. The Indians were trailing in the seventh, after Charlie Gehringer's single had brought in Frank Croucher in the third. Hal Trosky opened with a double. Then Heath lifted one into the lower right field stands, scoring what proved to be the payoff run. Score:

So Far That Organ Plays Only a Dirge

Ray Nelson, who on Saturday unveiled his pipe organ behind the grandstand screen at Wrigley field, was at his keyboard again yesterday, playing a concert to the delight of those of the 18,678 fans who arrived before 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. Nelson was obliged to still his bellows at 2:30 because his répertoire includes many restricted ASCAP arias, which would have been picked up by the radio microphones hooked up a half hour before game time.

The organist, it is promised, will sort his album before the Cubs return home on May 13 and will be ready to peal BMI selections exclusively. Also in prospect is a Cub theme song entitled, "When the Midnight Choo Choo Leaves for T-U-L-S-A."

Those who can think of a better title for a theme song are requested to send their suggestions to General Manager James T. Gallagher, Wrigley field, Chicago. Also any little number you'd like to have rippled off some afternoon, fitting the aria to the baseball score at the time, of course.

Cincinnati Player Beats Riggs in Asheville Final

Asheville, N. C., April 27 (AP).—Billy Talbert of Cincinnati, 16th ranking player, defeated Bobby Riggs, the nation's No. 2 player, 7-5, 6-4, 6-2, in the finals of the Land of the Sky tennis tournament today. Riggs teamed with Arthur Harman, Piedmont, Cal., to win the doubles title from Talbert and Alex Guerry, Chattanooga, Tenn., 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

REPORT GIANTS TO USE HELMETS; THIRD IN MAJORS

New York, April 27 [Special].—Convinced that Pete Reiser's baseball career, and possibly his life, was preserved by his batter's helmet when he was struck down by a wild pitch last Wednesday, the New York Giants are going to wear the protective headgear, it was learned from a source close to President Horace Stoneham today.

The Giants will be the second club to follow the example of President Larry MacPhail and his Dodgers. Yesterday the Washington Senators, setting the American league precedent, wore helmets against the Yankees.

Reiser, released from the hospital yesterday, donned a uniform and took batting practice today. He stood up to the plate confidently and hit several pitches solidly, driving one high over the right field screen.

Perry Wins First Open Tennis Title and $450

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 27 (AP).—Fred Perry, playing in his first United States open tennis tournament, came from behind today to win the championship and $450 in a listless match from Dick Skeen of Los Angeles, Cal., 4-6, 9-7, 6-3, 6-2.

Perry then teamed with Vincent Richards of New York to win the $400 doubles prize from Skeen and John Faunce, Hollywood, Cal. The score was 6-4, 6-4, 8-6.

CARDINALS ROUT LEE IN 3D WITH 5 STRAIGHT HITS

Rookie's Fielding Sags; Batting .154.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

It is perhaps just as well that the Cubs are getting out of town today—to Boston, farthest city in the National league. Some 18,678 hopeful citizens saw them lose, 8 to 5, to the Cardinals yesterday and were vociferously disapproving, tho they did show symptoms of forgiveness when the Cubs displayed signs of life in the eighth and ninth innings.

It was the fifth straight Wrigley field loss for the Cubs since their triumphant season opener. But it wasn't the fact the Cubs lost again so much as it was their helplessness that caused the wolves to howl as they never have howled before at this early date.

Novikoff Booed by Fans.

Outstanding among the victims of this baying from the stands was unhappy Lou Novikoff, who has suffered much because he was the idol of the magazines and the airlanes, as well as California at large, before he started to show what he can't do in major league competition. Poor Lou, really a fine and earnest young man, was benched in the middle of the game after an awkward fielding maneuver which has become painfully familiar to Cub followers in the brief time he has been a Cub. When Augie Galan took Lou's place the crowd cheered lustily, even before the substitution had been announced.

Novikoff was batting .154 when he left yesterday's game. He has made six hits in 39 times at bat, one home run, three doubles, and two singles.

The newcomers, Billy Myers and Lou Stringer, also were given the raspberry in a none too hospitable manner. Each made an error and thereafter there was wild applause when they were able to complete a play. Myers' predicament was aggravated by the fact that he fanned all three times he went to bat, running his string to 13 whiffs in 23 times at bat.

Nicholson Hits No. 4.

The fans' displeasure was made more acute, perhaps, because they had experienced great joy in the first inning when Bill Nicholson busted his fourth homer of the year with two on. It was Bill's third homer against St. Louis and his second off Morton Cooper, who went all the way for a victory that put the Cardinals in first place in the National league standing.

Bill Lee made his second start of the season but disappeared after Jimmy Brown, Terry Moore, Johnny Mize, and Enos Slaughter had knocked successive doubles in the third inning and Gus Mancuso had added a single. Following Bill came Paul Erickson, who was charged with three runs in the fifth, a foray in which Novikoff again revealed his horror of brick, concrete, and tin when those materials are used in the construction of outfield barriers. Larry French and Tot Pressnell did all right after Paul went away.

Cavarretta Gets Three Hits.

The Cubs made eight hits, or within five of their grand total of 13 in the three previous Wrigley field losses. Five of these were knocked in the last two innings. Three of the Cub hits, two singles and a double, were made by Phil Cavarretta, No. 1 man in the Cubs' detachment of forgotten men until three days ago.

From Nicholson's homer with one out in the first inning, until Cavar-

SEWARD MEETS DORLAC TONIGHT IN COMEBACK BID

Three Other 8 Round Bouts on Marigold Card.

Four eight round bouts will highlight the boxing show tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Billy Seward, Ingomar, Mont., lightweight, will meet Al Dorlac of St. Louis in one of the events. It will be Seward's first appearance since being stopped in a round by Harvey Dubs a week ago. In addition to being Bill's first defeat in nearly two years it was the first time he had been knocked out. It will be his 36th match.

Seward Seeks No. 31.

Because he beat Dorlac in an earlier meeting Seward is a favorite to win. The aggressive Montana fighter will be making another attempt to score his 31st victory.

Other contests will bring together Ernie Derho, Minneapolis welterweight, and Tito Taylor; Gordon Palmer, St. Paul light heavyweight, and Johnny Trotter and Floyd Hagen, lightweight, also of St. Paul, and Sam Scully.

Taylor, Derho Meet Second Time.

The Taylor-Derho engagement is an encore, Tito having previously scored a decision after a hard battle in five rounds. Prior to this achievement Taylor conquered Danny Valerio. The south side colored slugger lost a split decision to Sammy Secreet last Monday. Derho hammered out a victory over Johnny Rozina in the Marigold arena on March 10.

Lem Franklin, heavyweight, and Milt Aron, welterweight, will resume workouts in Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon for 10 round matches in Des Moines Friday, the former against Selman Martin and Aron against Jess Ackerman. Franklin knocked out Frank Androff in one round last week to score his ninth consecutive triumph, eight by knockouts.

Quentin [Babe] Breese, Milwaukee lightweight, whose scheduled encounter with Davey Day in Chicago Stadium May 16 has been canceled, has hopes of getting a title chance against Sammy Angott, National Boxing association champion, in Flint, Mich., June 21 without the necessity of having to meet Day. . . . Jack Root, former light heavyweight champion, will attend the Veteran Boxers' association dance in the Midland hotel Saturday.

Eight Races on Today's Card at Sportsman's

The Chicago horse racing season, off and running to what appears to be one of its best years in history, will have its second day this afternoon at Sportsman's Park, with eight races well filled thru overnight entries.

The little southwest side track touched off the 1941 campaign Saturday with a handsome mutuel handle and a crowd which officials reckoned at 20,167, off of their turnstile count. Not only was every available track parking space used, but also the Hawthorne section and a number of side streets. The attendance was such that many would-be betters were unable to get their money down.

The mutuel handle for Saturday's eight races and the daily double reached a total of $392,548, against the sum of $377,633, wagered on the opening day of last autumn's meeting. This, of course, was still well under the all-time Sportsman's high of a few years back—$415,000.

The Sportsman's meeting inaugurates a string of 163 racing days in these parts. Following the close of the meeting there on May 17, the horses will go to Lincoln Fields, Arlington Park, Washington Park, Hawthorne, and Sportsman's again, in that order until the season's close on Nov. 1.

Tomorrow will be ladies' day. Women will be admitted to the grandstand upon payment of 28 cents tax.

ILLINI GYMNASTS TAKE CENTRAL AAU TEAM TITLE

The University of Illinois gymnastic team, national AAU and national collegiate champion, won the Central AAU team title last night at the University of Chicago with 875 points.

Caton Cobb captured the all around championship, with Louis Fina and Paul Fins, second and third. Jack Adkins retained his tumbling title by registering 86 points. They are members of the Illinois team, which also included Harry Koehnemann.

In the secondary division the Sokol Pilsen team of Chicago won with 802 points. George Kalas was the all around champion with 209 points.

Senn high school, 807.50 won the prep team title and Ronald Beyer, of Senn, the all around with 184.75. Irving Begard, Chicago Towers club, scored 85.25 points to win the junior tumbling honors.

Police Team Seeks New North Side Training Site

The police department's north side baseball team, which for 14 years has been using Mills stadium on the west side as training grounds for the annual city championship series with the south side, is searching for a new practice field. During the week Capt. Harry O'Connell, manager of the north siders, and his star pitcher, Patrolman Mike Delaney, will look at Spencer Coals park, 4200 North Central avenue. Mills stadium has been razed to make room for a novelty factory.

Illinois Man Hits 745; Tops ABC Singles

St. Paul, Minn., April 27 [Special].—Fans at the American Bowling Congress tournament were treated to one of its hottest sessions this afternoon as the singles lead changed hands and a Chicagoan rolled the ninth perfect game in the history of the meet.

The singles lead was taken over by Fred Ruff Jr., 28 years old, of Belleville, Ill., who shot a 745 total. William Hoar, a Chicago salesman, turned in the 300 game.

Ruff, bowling in his first ABC tournament, had games of 258, 258, and 229. The former solo division leader was Ed Mady of Minneapolis, who hit 740 on April 17. The Belleville bowler, a superintendent of a concrete mixing plant, has been bowling approximately 10 years and has an average of 190.

Ruff Ninth in All-Events.

Rolling on the same squad with Ruff, Eddie Hitch of Erie, Pa., soared into fourth spot in the singles with 735 on games of 234, 222, 279. Two other bowlers on the same squad, Lester Lytle of Erie and John Guzy of Minneapolis, barely missed the 700 mark.

Ruff also landed on the all-events leaders' board with 1,947 for ninth place. He had series of 606 in the team event, 596 in doubles, and his 745 in singles.

Hoar collected his medal winning 300 total on games of 182, 238, and 300 for an individual series of 720, which, with the aid of a 588 series by his partner, Raymond Fliger, put the Chicago pair in sixth place in the doubles with 1,308. The pair had team games of 395-432-481.

Hoar, a member of the O'Keefe Brothers Coal five which rolls in the Windy City league, has a 186 average. His previous high game in either league or tournament competition was 290.

Al Schmitz Rolls 653.

None of the other Chicagoland bowlers was able to threaten the leaders, altho Al Schmitz of the Nonebetter Ice Creams chalked up 653, Paul Benedict, 652; Ray Koopman, 642, and Jerry Peck, 632.

Hoar is the first Chicago bowler to score a 300 game in the ABC. Others who have rolled perfect games are: Mike Domenico, Canton, O. [two man] 1940; George Pallage, Akron, O. [individual] 1940; William McGeorge, Kent, O. [individual] 1939; Michael Blazek, Conneaut, O. [individual] 1938; Carl Mesenberg, Scranton, Pa. [individual] 1935; Jack Karstens, Fort Sheridan, Ill. [two man] 1933; Charles Reinlie, Racine, Wis. [two man] 1926; William J. Knox, Philadelphia [individual] 1913.

DODGERS BEAT GIANTS, 7-5, FOR SIXTH STRAIGHT

Brooklyn Climbs to 2d; New York Drops to 3d.

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 27 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers stretched their winning streak to six games today and knocked the New York Giants out of the National league lead with a 7 to 5 victory before 26,436 fans. The victory enabled the Dodgers to take second place and the St. Louis Cardinals to climb to first.

It was a free hitting struggle in which the Dodgers collected 14 hits and the Giants 11, and neither Hugh Casey nor Carl Hubbell, the starting pitchers, was able to finish.

Casey became the winner, however, thru a three run Dodger rally in the sixth, when he was removed for a pinch hitter. Lee Grissom, performing smoothly in relief, held the Giants' hitless over the last three innings.

Dolph Camilli's sixth homer of the new season opened the scoring off Hubbell in the second inning, and the veteran southpaw was replaced by Bill Lohrman in the third, when Brooklyn tallied twice more. Score:

REDS, 3; PIRATES, 2.

Cincinnati, O., April 27 (AP).—Bucky Walters evened accounts today with the Pittsburgh Pirates, who knocked him off the mound in his first start of the season, by pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 3 to 2 victory.

Walters yielded six hits, a single, and a home run by Elburt Fletcher in the first inning, scoring both Pirate runs. Truett Sewell went the route for the Pirates and likewise yielded only six hits, but Sewell lost his own ball game by a wild pitch that brought in the winning run in the sixth.

The Reds head east for an 11 game stand with a record of six out of their last seven won. Score:

Philadelphia, Pa., April 27 (AP).—Bill Posedel, making his first start this season, held the Phillies to four hits and rapped out three of Boston's 14 hits himself today to give the Bees an 8 to 3 triumph before a crowd of 4,225.

It was Boston's first victory after four straight defeats and when they tallied in the second inning the Bees broke a string of 21 consecutive scoreless innings.

Posedel, who had been on the bench for five weeks with a sore arm, was deprived of a shutout when Ben Warren walloped a homer in the ninth with two men on base to account for the Phillies' three runs. Score:

YANKS PUT ON 5 HIT DIET; LOSE TO SENATORS, 6 TO 3

New York, April 27 (AP).—Steve Sundra obtained revenge from the New York Yankees today for selling him to Washington earlier this month. He held his former teammates to five hits as the Senators ripped off a 6 to 3 victory with a 12 hit offensive against three Yankee pitchers.

Cecil Travis, returning to the Washington lineup following an injury, batted in three runs and scored once himself on two doubles and a triple. Joe DiMaggio hit his fifth home run with the bases empty in the ninth. Score:

Cubs Go East Today; Open Against Bees

The Cubs will leave at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon for Boston, where they will open their first 1941 invasion of the east tomorrow afternoon with Claude Passeau doing the pitching. Claude has had a misery in his side as a result of a sprain in St. Louis a week ago yesterday.

Second Baseman Bill Herman, bruised in a collision with Jimmy Brown in Saturday's Cub-Card contest, remained in the hospital yesterday but will accompany the Cubs east. Catcher Clyde McCullough, hurt a few seconds before Herman was laid low, expects to be able to catch the Boston opener.

Holdout Hank Leiber saw yesterday's game, but neglected to look up General Manager Jim Gallagher.

NEW HIGH JUMP RECORD MAKER IS A ONE MAN TEAM

Seattle, Wash., April 27 (AP).—Les Steers of the University of Oregon, who yesterday bettered the world outdoor high jump record, still isn't doing it right. That's his coach, grizzled Col. Bill Hayward, talking.

Hayward was tickled to see his protége clear 6 feet 10 25-32 inches, but he said: "Did you notice him going over for that record jump? He's got a bad habit of crossing over with his jumping foot. It throws him off balance. I guess I'll just have to put a block of wood there to keep his foot from that spot, and if he hits the block of wood he'll break his leg. Then maybe he will stop that crossover business."

After breaking the record, Steers' three attempts with the center of the bar at 7 feet failed, so he emptied the sawdust from his shoes, went over to the start of the high hurdles, which had been held up during his high jump performance, and ran a dead heat with a teammate for first place in Oregon's dual meet with Washington, which Washington won, 86 to 45.

He also placed first in the javelin with a 191 foot 4 inch toss, and Hayward insists Steers would have done better than third in the shot put, which he sent 44 feet 7½ inches, if he hadn't gone up to a mountain cabin last week and tried all afternoon to throw rocks across a river.

SHORT LIVED CHAMPION.

Provo, Utah, April 27 (AP).—Bill Stewart bettered the world's high jump record, but his elation was short lived. Soon after Stewart of Southern California cleared the bar at 6 feet 10⅝ inches in an exhibition he learned Les Steers, University of Oregon jumper, made it 6 feet 10 25-32 inches at Seattle.

Cubs Beaten, 8-5; Novikoff Sent to Bench

retta opened the eighth with a double, the only Cub hits were a single by Cavarretta at the start of the third and a single by Stringer with two out in the sixth. In the same span the Cubs executed seven of their eight strikeouts. These elements, combined with fielding misadventures by Myers, Stringer, and Stan Hack, and Novikoff's plight, doubtless made the fans behave the way they did.

The first entry in Lee's everything happens to me album came in the first inning. Johnny Hopp opened the game with a legitimate single, then Brown shot what appeared to be a double play grounder to Stringer. Just as Lou was about to grab the ball, however, it struck a pebble and bounced into his face for a single. Lee took this first mishap calmly enough and handled Moore's sacrifice. Mize was given an intentional pass, loading the bases, and Slaughter forced Mize, Hopp scoring. Slaughter took second but Brown held third on a passed ball and the inning was over after Myers threw out Mancuso.

Nicholson Fixes Up a Lead.

The Cubs, who failed to make a run for Lee in his 1941 debut on April 22, that 1 to 0 clash with Johnny Vander Meer, appeared to have made amends when they tallied three in the first inning.

Hack, first up, walked, and after Cavarretta had fouled to Brown, Dom Dallessandro walked. Without waiting for any more passes, Nicholson decided to introduce some power into the Cub attack. So he knocked the ball far over the 360 foot sign into the right field bleacher. Novikoff walked, but Stringer fanned and Bob Scheffing flied to Hopp.

Lee didn't let Marion, Frank Crespi, or Cooper get the ball out of the infield in the second and at the start of the third Bill made a brilliant play with Cavarretta to retire Hopp. Immediately thereafter the shootin' started.

Cards Hit 4 Doubles in Row.

Brown doubled and scored on Moore's double to right. Moore overran second and was trapped on a relay, Nicholson to Stringer to Myers. Terry then broke for third and appeared to be an easy out until Hack dropped Myers' toss. Moore and Hack sprawled on the ground, but the former got up and leaped safely to third. Mize doubled to left, sending Moore home with the tying run. Slaughter made it four doubles in a row to score Mize. Mancuso lined a single to center, scoring Slaughter, and Erickson replaced Lee. After Marion singled to left, Crespi and Cooper fanned.

Hopp, Brown, and Moore were easy for Erickson in the fourth, but there was another big explosion in the fifth. Mize sent a high fly to left and Novikoff, wall-shy even in the eyes of his Los Angeles worshippers, made a ludicrous attempt to make the catch, still remaining ten feet from the hard, hard bricks. The fly fell for a triple.

Erickson Batted Out.

Slaughter singled to left, scoring Mize. Mancuso sacrificed, but Marion doubled to right. After French replaced Erickson, Stringer fumbled Crespi's easy grounder, Crespi reaching first and Marion third. Cooper bunted and when Scheffing threw to first to retire him, Marion got home on a sort of delayed squeeze play, if there is such a thing.

French continued to pitch in the sixth and seventh innings and the only gent to reach first was Marion, who landed on Myers' fumble with two out in the seventh. Pressnell pitched the last two innings, allowing one single in each inning.

The Cubs' run in the eighth was produced on Cavarretta's double and Galan's single. In the ninth, Eddie Waitkus batted for Myers and singled to center, got to second on a wild pitch and scored on Hack's single to left. Cavarretta followed with his third hit, putting Hack on third, but the game ended with Dallessandro's fly to Hopp.

Hallett Ends Brown Series for Sox Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, April 27.—For a time this afternoon Manager James Dykes of the White Sox thought he might start John Rigney in the series final against the Browns tomorrow. Rigney didn't think himself quite ready for the job, so it was turned over to Rookie Jack Hallett. The Browns' starter will be Vern Kennedy.

Fred Haney, the Browns' boss, went thru with his protest of yesterday's 2 to 1 Sox victory, but he doesn't expect a favorable response. He based his protest on the allegation that Mike Kreevich didn't legally catch a fly ball. Today Haney told Manager Dykes he knew the ball had been caught, but explained that protests are the only thing that might make the magnates revise an illogical regulation.

Billy Webb, head man of the Sox farm system, viewed today's game and then headed back to Jonesboro, Ark., seat of training operations for the farm clubs. Of more than 100 players in the camp, 16 already have been called for army service.

Dietrich and Sox Defeat Browns, 7-6

Radcliff and Laabs counting. After Don Heffner had popped out, the bases were repacked on Bob Swift's infield single, but Dietrich adjusted his troubles by fanning Auker.

Sox Finally Break Thru.

The Sox didn't get anything out of four hits in the first two innings, but turned right around and grabbed a pair in the third on a lone single. Auker assisted in this by walking Knickerbocker and Appling before an an out had been recorded. Kuhel's pop to Berardino was of no help. Solters, who had hit into a double play with two on bases in the opening inning, forgot about his slump and singled to right, Knickerbocker scoring and Appling taking third. Appling hiked home on Lodigiani's fly to Laabs, but Solters was nipped trying to reach second on the same play.

Dietrich encountered a slight flurry in the third, the Browns making it 4 to 2 on a run brewed by McQuinn's triple and Berardino's double, but the Sox corrected this by plastering Auker for a tie in the fifth. It all happened after two were out. Kuhel set things in motion by singling to center. Solters got farther away from his slump by doubling to left, Kuhel halting at third. Then Lodigiani slipped a double into left to score his two mates. Larry Rosenthal ended the inning with a bounder to McQuinn.

Knickerbocker Busy Fellow.

Knickerbocker assumed the burden of trying to untie the 4 to 4 knot in the seventh. He singled to right and stole second before Appling had time to fan. Kuhel grounded out, but Solters singled to center and Knickerbocker scored. Lodigiani also singled and Judnich fumbled the ball, but Solters, who tried to get home on the error, was nailed. Knickerbocker also started the ninth inning disturbance for Allen, but was forced by Kuhel after Appling had flied to Laabs. Solters singled again, Kuhel going to third and Solters taking second on the throw. They scored with ease, Kuhel on a passed ball by Grace and Solters on Allen's wild pitch.

A scratch single to Appling by Laabs sent Dietrich off to his bad start in the ninth. Knickerbocker prounced on Judnich's grounder and tossed to Appling for a force play, but the throw was badly aimed. McQuinn slammed a single into left, filling the bases. Berardino popped out, but Lucadello beat out a single, which Knickerbocker was lucky to knock down, and Laabs scored. Grace singled to left, scoring Judnich. Then Roberto Estalella was ushered forth to bat for Allen and he smacked the grounder that Appling picked up to conclude the show.

NECKTIE SPURS PORKY TO SHOOT A 65 FOR ARMY

Oliver and Tailer Defeat Navy Ringers, 1 Up.

Lakewood, N. J., April 27 (AP).—Army life has not taken the edge off Ed [Porky] Oliver's golf game, but it has made a necktie part of his links attire.

The former pro from Wilmington, Del., who was drafted into Uncle Sam's service, came up with a 65, six under par, to lead an army team to a 1 up victory over a navy combine in an 18 hole match on the Lakewood Country club course today.

Private Oliver paired with Corp. T. Suffern [Tommy] Tailer, former Long Island resident and prominent eastern amateur tournament competitor, who enlisted in the army.

Army Pours It On.

Representing Fort Dix, where both are stationed, they bested an embryonic navy personnel team of Vic Ghezzi, New Jerseyan who finished high among the money winners in last winter's southern golf cavalcade, and Charles Whitehead, New Jersey amateur champion, representing the naval air station at Lakehurst. Ghezzi carded a 68. The amateurs had 75s.

Oliver and Tailer played in regulation army uniforms, which brought from Porky the declaration it was the first time he had ever worn a necktie while playing golf. It did not prevent his slicing three strokes off the course record.

Service Men in Gallery.

Ghezzi and Whitehead got the official navy touch by sporting white sailor hats.

A gallery of 500 servicemen and civilians saw the navy team move 1 up when Whitehead got a birdie on the eighth. Oliver evened the count for the army with a birdie on the 13th and repeated on the 16th to put his side ahead. They halved the last two holes.

The match, which treated Lakewood to its best golf in years, grew out of a facetious challenge and counter challenge maneuver between air station officers and the Fort Dix command.

Return in a Hurry.

Lieutenant Commanders George Watson and R. F. Tyler were to have represented the station, but when Fort Dix announced Oliver and Tailer as its representatives the naval officers announced they would be away on a visit somewhere by blimp. Whitehead and Ghezzi were drafted as replacements for them.

The official mission must have been brief, because both Watson and Tyler were spectators today.

SOUTH CHICAGO WINS.

The South Chicago YMCA women's volley ball team won the city title yesterday defeating Lincoln-Belmont YMCA in Lawson gymnasium. The scores were, 15-10, 16-18, 15-10, 15-13.

SEA SCOUT DIES WITH LEADER IN MISHAP OF BOAT

Port Huron, Mich., April 27 [Special].—Kenneth Robbins, 20, Port Huron Sea Scout leader, and William Buston, 15, a Sea Scout, drowned in the St. Clair river this afternoon after they had been knocked out of a surf boat which was rammed by a motor yacht. Buston's body had not been recovered tonight.

Ten scouts had rowed the surf boat, a present from the coast guard, up the river and picked up their leader and Verna Kranke, 16. On the way back to port they sighted the yacht at anchor. They stopped to offer assistance.

Joseph J. Czechaski, retired Two Rivers, Wis., coast guardsman and captain of the yacht, recently bought by Leander Sturn, Manitowoc, Wis., left the pilot house to tell the scouts crewmen were working on the engine. Then the yacht lurched forward, tipping the surf boat.

Robbins assisted in the rescue of Miss Kranke before he went down. Two scouts pulled him aboard a dinghy and took him ashore, where an inhalator squad tried for two hours to revive him. Buston was not missed until some time after the mishap.

ASTRONOMERS AREN'T AT WAR, HARVARD FINDS

Cambridge, Mass., April 27 (AP).—Despite the war, England and Germany are exchanging astronomical research papers thru an arrangement made by American astronomers. Associate Professor Bart J. Bok of Harvard observatory disclosed today that arrangements for the exchange have been in effect since December.

The Royal Astronomical society of England accepted this month the invitation of the American committee to join in the exchange, Dr. Bok said.

Under the plan astronomers in England and continental Europe are thus sending scientific papers to Harvard for mutual exchange. At least once a month the American committee, which has mailing headquarters at Harvard observatory, ships copies of our astronomical magazine, together with abstracts of papers from various observatories, to astronomers in Leyden, Berlin, Brussels, Paris, Florence, and London.

MISSING SISTERS' BODIES FOUND; ONE STRANGLED

Montgomery, Ala., April 27 (AP).—Bodies of two little sisters, Juanita Hicks, 10 years old, and Euline, 12, who disappeared a week ago, were found in the Alabama river today. Physicians were quoted as saying that Juanita "probably was strangled."

Dr. S. E. Centerfit, who supervised autopsis, said he believed the children were dead when placed in the river, "because of the condition of their lungs, which still had air in them, and because their hair was full of cockleburrs, indicating they had been dragged." Neither had been raped, he added, and no broken bones were found.

After leaving home last Monday, the children sent their books to school by a playmate with a request that she tell the teacher they had gone to a clinic to be examined.

The bodies were found by Maxwell field soldiers searching for the body of a private who drowned on Thursday. A widespread search had been conducted since the girls disappeared.

BIG TOP VOTES TO PICK QUEEN FOR CIRCUS BALL

The woman bareback rider was the queen of the circus in the old days, but she has bigger competition today, judging from the excitement among 112 feminine performers appearing with the Greater Olympia circus at Chicago Stadium.

The cast, prop men, and other employés of the circus are conducting their second annual contest to select the five most popular and beautiful girls in the show, one of whom will reign as queen at a circus ball Wednesday night in the Continental room of the Stevens hotel. The queen will be selected by Maurice Seymour, photographer; Del Courtney, orchestra leader, and Terrell Jacobs, the featured performer of the circus.

The circus will continue thru Sunday. Because of the spring vacation in the Chicago schools daily matinées will be presented at 2:30 p. m.

JUDGES IN CITY SEEK TO AMEND ELECTION BILL

Municipal Judge Joseph B. Hermes of the Municipal court admitted yesterday that he and his colleagues on the city bench are seeking to amend a legislative bill for the nonpartisan election of judges in a manner they think will enhance their chances of reëlection.

Judge Hermes said he and Judge Mason S. Sullivan had asked Representative R. V. Libonati [D., Chicago] to sponsor the amendment on behalf of all the judges. Should it be adopted in Springfield this week, instead of an open judicial primary next year, only the names of the judges would appear and the voters would decide if they should be retained on their record.

The Chicago Bar association, which sponsors the bill feels that sitting judges should not be blanketed in. William H. King Jr., president of the association, who scored Judge Hermes and Sullivan as "lobbyists," said the association thinks that the 1942 primary should be open to all candidates and those elected that fall start running on their records when their terms expire. All the present judges are Democrats and to blanket them in with an amendment would, King fears, alienate Republican legislators and prevent the bill's passage.

The question is expected to be debated on the house floor tomorrow or Wednesday.

J. J. ESCH DIES; EX-CONGRESSMAN FROM WISCONSIN

La Crosse, Wis., April 27 (AP).—John J. Esch, 80 years old, representative from the seventh congressional district from 1898 to 1920 and former member of the Interstate Commerce commission, died at his home today.

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Esch attained national prominence as a co-author of the transportation act of 1920.

Appointed a member of the commerce commission by President Harding he served as chairman of that body in 1927. His nomination for reappointment by President Coolidge in 1928 caused a wide split in congressional circles and, eventually, the senate rejected the appointment.

Esch's nomination was opposed, in a great measure, by senators from the southern coal states because of his stand on a cargo coal rate case whereby railroads serving Pennsylvania mines were permitted to reduce their rates to lake ports. The south claimed Esch's views gave Pennsylvania an undue competitive advantage.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

GEN'L MOTORS EARNS LESS ON RECORD SALES

Before Tax, Profits Are 52 Pct. Higher.

General Motors corporation reported yesterday that March quarter earnings after taxes were 3.6 per cent less than in the corresponding 1940 period despite an all-time record in sales. Before taxes the earnings were 52.1 per cent higher.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr.

Net profit for the first three months totaled $64,598,337, or $1.44 a common share, compared with $67,028,461, or $1.50 a share, a year earlier.

Net sales totaled $649,192,619 in the opening 1941 quarter, compared with $458,150,556 in the like three months last year, an increase of 41.7 per cent.

Sloan Explains Situation.

The first quarter was characterized by a rapidly rising trend of industrial activity in a broad field, reflecting the stimulation to the economy by the program of national rearmament, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman, reported to stockholders.

"Practically speaking, this is what is happening," he said. "As projects involving national armament develop, they act as motivating centers. Pay rolls increase due to the lengthening of working hours and the addition of workers. New pay rolls are established as additional plants reach the state of productivity.

"The purchasing power thus created is resulting in a rapidly expanding demand for consumer goods. This stimulates production in plants not directly concerned with the army program. This in turn has the effect of increasing the number of workers and extending the hours of employment, all of which serve to pyramid purchasing power for consumer goods.

Demand Further Increased.

"Thus the whole economy becomes affected. Relatively speaking, few of the plants specially designed for the production of materials for armaments have reached the productive state. Their economic effect up to now has been limited to stimulating the capital goods industries, which have shown an extraordinary rise in activity.

"As more and more of these plants come into production, they begin to provide additional employment directly, and indirectly thru their demands for materials and supplies. Thus the demand for consumer goods is still further increased. In all probability the peak will not be reached for some months.

"General Motors enters the spring selling season with subnormal dealer stocks, which in all likelihood will prejudice its ability to meet the increased demands for its products."

Sloan disclosed that 7.6 per cent of the company's total sales in the first quarter—about $49,285,000—consisted of deliveries of special arms materials to the United States, British, and Canadian governments.

Union Pacific Revenue Rises 3 Pct. in 1940

The Union Pacific railroad during 1940 had an increase of 3 per cent in freight revenue over 1939, W. M. Jeffers, president, said in the annual report mailed to stockholders yesterday. The increase was the result of a 7.7 per cent rise in ton-miles of revenue freight, improved business conditions, and the national armament program.

"The effect of the increase in ton-miles was offset in part by a decrease of 4.3 per cent in average revenue per ton-mile, due principally to fluctuations in the classes of commodities carried, he said.

Expands Oil Operations.

The company during 1940 expanded its southern California oil operations, drilling 52 additional producing wells. At the close of the year the company had 208 producing wells, and eleven in the course of drilling or located.

As previously reported, the company had 1940 net income of $19,445,880 after taxes and charges, equal after preferred dividend requirements to $6.96 a common share, compared with $18,966,632, or $6.74 a share, in 1939.

Union Carbide and Carbon corporation and subsidiaries reported net income in the March quarter was $10,545,636, or $1.14 a share, compared with $10,468,706, or $1.13 a share, in the like 1940 period.

Earnings Are Reduced.

Plymouth Oil company reported consolidated net earnings for the March quarter of $245,806, or 24 cents a capital share, compared with $586,441, or 56 cents a share, a year earlier.

National Supply company and subsidiaries, makers of oil field and other machinery, reported net profit for the March quarter of $801,584, or 22 cents a common share after provision for preferred dividends, against $426,228, or six cents a share on the $2 preference stock, in the like 1940 period.

ARMS ORDERS UPSET STEEL DELIVERY RATE

Cleveland, O., April 27 (AP).—Armament orders continue more and more to upset steel mills' delivery schedules and the coal shutdown has reduced pig iron production 15,000 tons a day, the magazine Steel said today.

"Usually steel makers are at least two weeks behind promises in making deliveries," the review said. "The magnitude of 1941 steel business is shown by comparison with last year. One larger maker has booked five times as much steel from Jan. 10 to the present, as for the same period last year. Another company reports March sales as 10 times the volume of March, 1940."

Freight of Motor Trucks Runs Far Above Year Ago

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP).—The American Trucking association reported today that the volume of revenue freight carried by motor trucks in March increased 12 per cent over February and 36 per cent over March, 1940. Reports from 206 motor carriers in 38 states showed they transported an aggregate of 1,415,127 tons in March, compared with 1,263,748 tons in February, and 1,040,175 tons in March, 1940.

CORN FLAKES.

I wonder if the fierce competition in the breakfast food field has had any adverse effect on the sales of the Kellogg company. I would like a review of the company's sales, showing the recent trend. Also include earnings and dividends and a description of the business.—L. F.

Answer: Sales of corn flakes and other cereal foods by the Kellogg company gained almost 5 per cent last year. Sales and earnings in recent years compared as follows:

	Sales.	Net income.	Earned per shr.
1936	$33,891,000	$5,571,507	$2.55
1937	36,132,000	3,740,346	1.71
1938	31,967,000	2,174,581	1.00
1939	33,027,000	3,437,150	1.58
1940	34,570,000	4,200,428	1.92

The company has paid dividends on its common stock each year since 1928. Since 1937 annual payments have amounted to $1.50 a share. Dividends thru April 7 this year totaled 50 cents a share. The company has outstanding 2,182,500 shares of $1 par common stock.

Kellogg manufactures cereal foods, mainly corn flakes, at Battle Creek, Mich. The plant can mill 19,000 bushels of corn daily, and 6,500 bushels of wheat and other cereals. Daily finished capacity is 70,000 cases of 24 packages each. Plants at Sydney, Australia; London, Ont.; and Manchester, England, are operated by subsidiaries.

The consolidated balance sheet for Dec. 31, 1940, showed total assets of $19,723,343, including current assets of $12,705,197. Current liabilities amounted to $5,331,060.

BEING LIQUIDATED.

What has happened to the Wrought Iron company of Pennsylvania?—L. O.

Answer: The name of the Wrought Iron company was changed to the Lebanon Steel and Iron company in 1938. Last February the stockholders of the company approved a proposal to liquidate the company's assets and shut down the plant at Lebanon, Pa. Operations will continue until a definite procedure for liquidation is determined.

The company manufactures merchant bar iron and steel, channels, angles, bolts, nuts, rivets, and other iron products. Operations have been unprofitable for the company in most of the last few years. Net loss in the 8 months ended last December 31 was $19,778. Net income in the fiscal year ended April 30, 1940, was $3,173 against net loss of $17,313 in the 1939 fiscal year and net loss of $30,253 in the 1938 fiscal year.

NEW TRADE PEAK IS PREDICTED FOR FURNITURE SHOW

Percy Wilson, managing director of the Merchandise Mart, yesterday predicted that new attendance and dollar volume records would be established for the midseason home furnishings market which begins May 5. He said that both attendance and volume probably would show gains of 20 per cent over the present spring market record.

"The necessity of merchandising managers and buyers attending the market to build up their inventories with available goods to be purchased before future price rise are announced," Wilson said, "follows the prediction made by wholesale and retail business authorities who agree that this year's prospective home furnishings sales will boost retail sales near the peak attained in 1929."

It was said that buyers will face slight price increases thruout most of the lines when the market opens, despite efforts by manufacturers to maintain present price levels.

THE BOYS SEEM TO KNOW THEIR GROCERIES NOW

New York, April 27 (AP).—In a typical Wall street boardroom where the conversation used to run to stocks to the exclusion of nearly everything else, you now hear this kind of talk:

"What do you think of eggs here?"

"I'm inclined to favor cocoa."

"Pepper looks all right."

"Soy beans have done well."

"Is corn going to do better?"

"Lard and cottonseed oil look good to me."

"What do you say about coffee?"

The talkers seem to know their groceries, which are not the kind that are bundled up to take home. The shift of interest from securities and commodities has been a providential event for those brokerage firms which have the over-all facilities thru memberships in the principal commodity exchanges. It has helped to ease the problem of large overhead and limited revenue created by the diminished interest in the stock market.

Assets of Nation's Banks Increase to 85½ Billions

Washington, D. C., April 27 (AP).—The controler of the currency reported today that assets of banks totaled $85,571,902,000 last Dec. 31, compared with $77,575,257,000 a year earlier.

BUSINESS, FARM STATUS BETTER IN MIDDLE WEST

Banker Reports Gain in April Industry.

Increased employment and pay rolls, brisk trade, expansion of armament work, and favorable farm crop weather were reported yesterday by Clifford S. Young, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, as evidence of an improvement in conditions in recent weeks in the 7th [Chicago] reserve district. He said that the March gains compared with a year ago were larger than the February year to year increase.

"Industrial activity in connection with rearmament gained momentum during March and the first half of April," said Young. "There was a marked expansion, both in primary orders and subcontracting in the district.

Civilian Trade Good.

"Civilian trade was exceptionally good. Employment and pay rolls in the durable and nondurable goods industries expanded 2 per cent in March.

"For all manufacturing groups the rise over year ago levels was 18 per cent in number of wage earners and 30 per cent in wage payments. The building industry has reached a post-depression high mark under the impetus of plant expansion and defense housing.

"Commercial, industrial, and agricultural loans expanded thruout March and the first half of April, and on April 16 were more than 100 million dollars larger than at the beginning of 1941."

Reports on Agriculture.

Concerning agriculture, Young said: "Higher than normal temperatures in April promoted the growth of crops in ground. Rains in the third week of April relieved subsoil deficiency and were beneficial generally, but delayed field work. However, this delay has not yet reached serious proportions.

"Prospects for planting the spring crops remain much better than a year ago. Prices of most agricultural products have strengthened in recent weeks."

Shipbuilder Has Nearly Half Billion Order Backlog

New York, April 27 [Special].—The Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company had $433,189,923 of unbilled shipbuilding contracts and $1,234,006 of hydraulic turbine contracts at the end of March, the company reported today. In the first quarter of this year billing amounted to $16,441,462 on shipbuilding contracts and $311,807 on hydraulic turbine contracts.

Fairchild Aviation Strike Averted by Conciliators

New York, April 27 (AP).—A strike at the Fairchild Aviation corporation plant, Queens, which has $21,000,000 of defense orders, was averted today when J. S. Ogsbury, company president, and CIO union representatives reached an agreement after conferring for three days with federal conciliators. Details of the agreement will be disclosed when 400 workers officially accept the terms.

Caterpillar Tractor Plant Employes' Wages Boosted

Oakland, Cal., April 27 (AP).—Federal Conciliator Omar F. Hoskins announced tonight that a 10 day strike at the San Leandro plant of the Caterpillar Tractor company had been settled and the men would return to work tomorrow. Union spokesmen said the agreement included wage increases of 9 to 20 cents an hour and overtime provisions.

MORTGAGE OF TOMORROW.

"The Mortgage of Tomorrow," a humorous dramatization of the proposed mortgage and foreclosure act, will be staged by the Chicago Bar association's committee on real estate, trust, and probate law, at a dinner meeting of the Nordic Law club in the South Side Swedish club, 7330 South Ridgeland avenue, tomorrow evening.

PRICES POINT UPWARD, BANK REVIEW WARNS

Commodity prices are showing a more pronounced upward tendency than at any time since early in the European war, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York said yesterday in its weekly business review.

The bank emphasized that supply and demand factors still are the major determinants of price trends in the principal countries, rather than broad monetary influences.

The survey criticized the tendency of "official quarters," while attempting price stabilization, to support demands of farmers and industrial workers for increased financial returns.

Urge Study on Real Estate Tax by All Governments

Washington, D. C., April 26 (AP).—The National Conference of Real Estate Taxpayers urged congress today to create a commission on taxation to make a study of the "pyramiding and overlapping" of taxes by local, state, and federal governments. Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati, former governor of Ohio, was reelected president of the conference.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

Trees Burst Into Leaf.

April 27, 1941.

TREES in the arboretum are bursting into leaf and flower and their color and fragrance are a welcome relief after the long days of winter.

Perhaps the most colorful tree is the star magnolia. It has put out large white flowers with leaves that curve delicately away from the flower heart. The blooms have a beautiful scent that can be detected many feet away, and a profusion of large pink buds form a background for the flowers, promising an abundance of blossoms.

There are fresh green leaves on the American mountain ash and the Amur cherry has put out small green leaves that turn a reddish color at the tip. The spring cherry tree is in blossom and is covered with tiny, delicate flowers. The white of the flowers and the pink buds that are waiting to burst into bloom form a colorful picture against the new green of the lawns.

Pink Buds Come Out.

There are green leaves and small pink buds on the allegheny shadblow and the Japanese quince valiantly is pushing out green buds in spite of the number of dried brown leaves that still cling to its branches.

The fringe tree still is wrapped in its winter sleep and shows little sign of being affected by the warm weather and sunshine it has had. There are beautiful, small white flowers on the Siberian apricot that make the tree one of the most eye-arresting in the arboretum.

Altho there were a few rather chilly days last week, the lilac bushes do not seem to have been affected. The flower and leaf buds have come out and the bushes show promise of producing a great number of blooms for lilac day.

Milk Production Rises.

The fertile productiveness of spring weather seems to have hit the dairy barn as well as the rest of the farm. With the new grass to graze and longer periods spent out of doors, the herd of purebred Guernseys is giving more milk. The herd test results for last month have come in and the cows have given more pounds of milk and butter fat than they did in February.

The test results show 19 cows in the herd, with 16 milking. Three were listed as dry or incomplete. Those in milk produced 834.4 pounds of milk and 46.10 pounds of butter fat. The average butter fat test was 5.16. This is quite a decent showing for the herd, and the dairy master is well pleased.

Before long the cows will be eased out onto bluegrass pasture. This must be gradual, because too much green grass all at once has an adverse affect on the animals. It also gives a taste to the milk.

FRANKLIN 2000

As we decided during my last conversation with you, I asked Dr. Beck, our consulting psychologist, to review Donald's situation so that we might have his opinion about Donald's future development. After going through the entire situation and reviewing all of the findings, he felt that there is little likelihood that Donald will develop more rapidly in the future than he has in the past. In view of this he reaffirms the earlier recommendation of the Adoption Committee that Donald should live in a home where there is less educational and cultural stimulation but where, at the same time, he will be able to develop his maximum potentialities.

Parts of letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Kamerman from Jewish Charities which figures in strange adoption fight.
